Today's Game

By Tim Bourret

Tigers Face Undefeated State

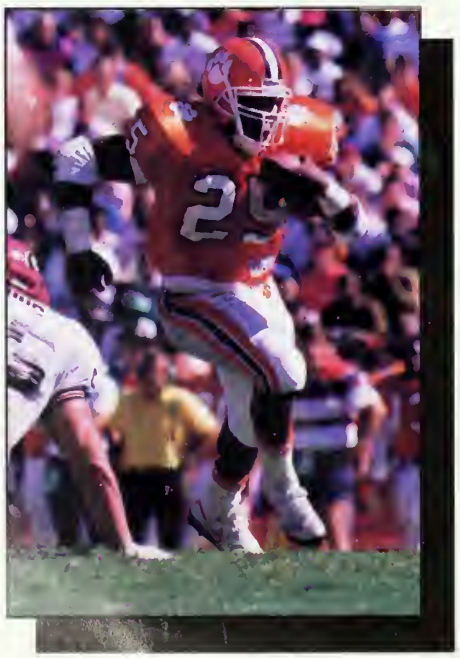
Clemson will face a 12th ranked, undefeated N.C. State team this afternoon at Death Valley in front of a regional television audience. A victory over the Tigers could move N.C. State close to its highest ranking ever, a number-three figure in 1967 after the Wolfpack had an 8-0 start.

This N.C. State team is a balanced group offensively that features a standout defense. On paper, it would appear that a field goal might win this game, as both teams have been ranked in the top five in the nation in total defense, rushing defense and scoring defense most of the season. In fact, three weeks ago Clemson and N.C. State were ranked one-two in the nation in scoring defense.

Dick Sheridan's offense features running back Anthony Barbour, quarterback turned wide receiver Charles Davenport, and freshman quarterback Geoff Bender. Barbour is the top rusher with a 5.5 yard average, while Davenport averages nearly three receptions per game and 18 yards a catch. Bender is taking over for injured quarterback Terry Jordan, who was the top passer in the ACC until he was injured against North Carolina. Bender has taken the Pack to three victories, handling himself with the poise of a senior.

What is really frightening about the N.C. State defense is their youth and balance. The Pack does not have anyone in the top 10 in the ACC in tackles per game and starts only two seniors, Clayton Henry and Mark Thomas. David Merritt, a junior inside linebacker, is the top tackler on the team. Yet, N.C. State is ranked among the top 12 in the country in total defense, rushing defense and scoring defense.

Tiger fans hope history repeats itself in this afternoon's game. Two years ago N.C. State came to Clemson with a 6-0 record and ranked 12th in the nation. The Tigers were coming off a three-game set in which they had lost two games, both to teams with losing records. However, the Tigers rose to the occasion and blitzed the Wolfpack 30-10, ending a three-game losing streak to N.C. State. Additionally, N.C. State came to Clemson in 1967 with an 8-1 record and a number-10 ranking. The Tigers pulled off the victory in that contest also (wearing special orange shoes), 14-6.



Williams had 242 all-purpose running yards against Virginia, sixth highest single game total in Clemson history.

Two Tigers Over 100 Yards

Ronald Williams and Rudy Harris both gained over 100 yards against Virginia. Both players had career days in fact. Williams picked up 185 yards on 20 attempts, while Harris had 102 yards on 26 rushes. It marked the first time since last year's Appalachian State game that the Tigers had two players gain over 100 yards in the same game. Williams had 183 yards and Derrick Witherspoon had 123 in that Clemson victory.

Harris went over 100 yards for the first time in his career and it was the first time a Clemson fullback went over 100 yards since Tracy Johnson had 125 in 25 carries against North Carolina in 1987. The Virginia contest also marked the first time the Clemson starting tailback and starting fullback had picked up 100 yards in the same game since the 1983 Duke game. In that contest fullback Kevin Mack had 150 yards in 13 attempts, while tailback Kenny Flowers picked up 112 yards in 17 attempts.

Williams Has Career Day

Clemson tailback Ronald Williams set career highs in three different areas and had one of the top all-around running days in Clemson history in the Tigers' 20-20 tie with Virginia. Williams had a career high 185 yards rushing in 20 attempts, gained a career high 57 yards in receptions and had a career high four receptions. He also picked up the longest run of his career, a 56-yard touchdown jaunt in the second period, and a 42-yard reception in the fourth period, also the longest of his career.

The 185 yards rushing and 57 yards receiving gave him 242 yards in all-purpose running. That ranks as the sixth best all-purpose running day in Clemson history and the most since 1986 when Terrence Flagler had a Tiger record 274 yards at Wake Forest. Here is a list of the top all-purpose running games in Clemson history:

Clemson All-Purpose Running Bests

Tigers Over 500 Yards vs. Virginia

Clemson picked up 511 yards in total offense in the tie against Virginia, the highest output by a Tiger team under Coach Ken Hatfield and the most by any Clemson team since a 512-yard outing against Maryland in 1988. The Tigers gained 315 yards on the ground and 196 in the air against the Cavs.

The 511 yards total offense represent the most yardage ever gained by the Tigers in a non-victory. The previous high was 492 yards against Georgia Tech in a 33-28 loss in Atlanta in 1975. The Tigers gained 192 yards rushing and 300 passing that day. The Tigers also gained 482 yards in total offense against Georgia Tech in Atlanta in 1976 in a 24-24 tie.

Blocking Leaders

One indication of outstanding play on the offense line is the knockdown block. There are not many statistics for an offensive lineman, but coaches do keep tabs on blocks in which a player has put an opponent on his back. The leader so far this season is tight end Tyrone Gibson. The sophomore, who also has five receptions for 57 yards, has 27 knockdowns this year, one more than Kelvin Hankins and Jeb Flesch. Gibson had 12 knockdowns against Virginia, the highest total of his career, and the highest for any Clemson player in a game this season. For his efforts he was named ACC Offensive Lineman-of-the-Week.

Hankins has been outstanding at offensive tackle in his first full season as a starter. The former first-team USA Today All-American had nine knockdown blocks, his career high, and the most knockdown blocks for a Clemson offensive tackle since Stacy Long had 10 against N.C. State in 1989. Hankins had a 71 grade for the Virginia game, but had a career high 84 percent grade on 69 plays at Georgia.

No Penalties by Virginia

Virginia was not charged with a single penalty in the 20-20 tie on October 12. That was the first time since November 25, 1961 that a Clemson opponent did not commit a penalty. That day N.C. State did not have a penalty accepted in a 20-0 Clemson victory. It is interesting to note that an opponent has not had a penalty against Clemson just three times in the last 40 years, and the Tigers have a 2-0-1 record in those games.

A further look at penalties reveals a conclusion that might be contrary to theories of most coaches. In games in which the opposition has just one or no penalties (since 1951), the Tigers are 10-3-1, a winning percentage of 75 percent. When Clemson commits just one or no penalities the Tigers are just 7-16, a 33.7 percent mark. Clemson's last game without a penalty took place at North Carolina on October 7, 1961, in a 27-0 Clemson victory.

Thus, over the last 40 years, teams that have committed one penalty or less in Clemson contests have just a 10-26-1 record, a 28 percent winning mark. One would think that committing few penalties would be to a team's advantage, but the final result in Clemson games the last 40 seasons fails to show this.

Tigers With Four ACC Players of the Week

Clemson had a record tying four players earn ACC Player-of-the-Week honors for the Virginia game on October 12. Tyrone Gibson, Darnell Stephens, Chester McGlockton and Robert O'Neal were all honored by the ACC Sportswriters Association. Gibson, Stephens and McGlockton were all honored for the first time in their respective careers.

Gibson had 12 knockdown blocks in the tie against Virginia and he was a major reason Clemson gained 511 yards in total offense. The ACC Offensive Lineman of the Week had 12 knockdown blocks against the Cavaliers, the most by a Tiger since Eric Harmon had 13 against Virginia in 1989. He also caught a 13-yard pass on a Clemson touchdown drive. The native of Camden, SC graded 80 percent for his 63 plays of action.

Stephens was the ACC Rookie-of-the-Week. The first-year freshman from Converse, TX had five tackles, a pass broken up and two punt returns for 60 yards. Stephens was also chosen Clemson's Player-of-the-Game by ABC Sports and was also named the ACC Rookie-of-the-Week by the South Carolina Sportwriters Association.

O'Neal had a career high four passes broken up, five tackles and a caused fumble. The caused fumble allowed Clemson to get the ball back with 2:26 left to play and tie the game with a field goal with 49 seconds left. O'Neal jarred the ball from Terry Kirby, the ACC's top rusher last year. Kirby already had a first-down on the third-down play prior to the fumble.

McGlockton had a career high tying 10 tackles and a career high tying three tackles for loss against the Cavs. The red-shirt junior played 52 snaps in the contest and had four tackles in the fourth quarter when Clemson held the Cavs to just three points.

O'Neal had a career high four PBU's against Virginia and was ACC Player-of-the-Week.

Cameron Catches Pass

Clemson quarterback DeChane Cameron turned wide receiver against Virginia. The native of LaGrange, GA became the first Clemson quarterback to catch a pass since 1970 when he had a 37-yard reception on a pass from Richard Moncrief. In 1970 Rick Gilstrap played both quarterback and tailback. He was 10-31 for 106 yards as a quarterback, and caught six passes for 39 yards as a receiver out of the backfield. Against North Carolina in 1970 he carried the ball six times for 13 yards, hit 1-1 passing for 15 yards, and caught a pass for 12 yards.

The last Clemson individual to throw a pass and catch a pass in the same game was Chip Davis. In 1988 he threw a 48-yard pass to Gary Cooper. He also caught three passes for 42 yards that day. Davis served as a wide receiver and threw passes on end around plays.

As far as the last time a Clemson quarterback lined up at that position and caught a pass thrown by another player.....we don't know. Call us if you can remember it happening.

Sixth Game Success

Clemson usually hits a good stride by the sixth game of the season. In fact, Clemson has won the sixth game of the season 10 straight seasons. Clemson last lost the sixth game of the season in 1980, a 34-17 loss to Duke at Clemson. Over the last 19 years the Tigers are 16-2-1 in the sixth game of the season. Last year Clemson downed Georgia 34-3 in what many felt was the best all-around performance by the Tigers in the 1990 regular season.

Tigers-South Carolina Tie

Clemson and South Carolina both were involved in ties on October 12. It marked the first time since September 26, 1942 that Clemson and South Carolina had both been involved in tie games (excluding occasions when Clemson and South Carolina played each other and the result was a tie). On that day in 1942, which was just one week after Death Valley was opened, Clemson tied VMI 0-0, while Tennessee and South Carolina played to a scoreless tie. Clemson and South Carolina last played to a tie against each other in 1986, 21-21 at Clemson.

Clemson, Hatfield After an Open Date

Clemson and Coach Ken Hatfield have been very successful the week after an open date. Hatfield is 7-2 lifetime the Saturday after an open date and is on a seven-game winning streak. He is 2-0 at Clemson after an open date, including a 37-7 win over Temple this year, and he was 3-0 at Arkansas in games of this nature. Last year Clemson downed South Carolina 24-15 when the Tigers had two weeks to prepare.

Clemson has won 11 of its last 12 games the week after an open date. Dating back to 1979, Clemson's only loss after an open date took place at Georgia in 1984 when Kevin Butler booted a 60-yard field goal with 11 seconds left to beat Clemson, 26-23. Counting bowl games, Clemson has a 17-3 record over the last 12 years when the Tigers have more than a week to prepare for an opponent.

Rob Bodine

By Sanford Rogers

Sometimes it is hard to see the forest for the trees.

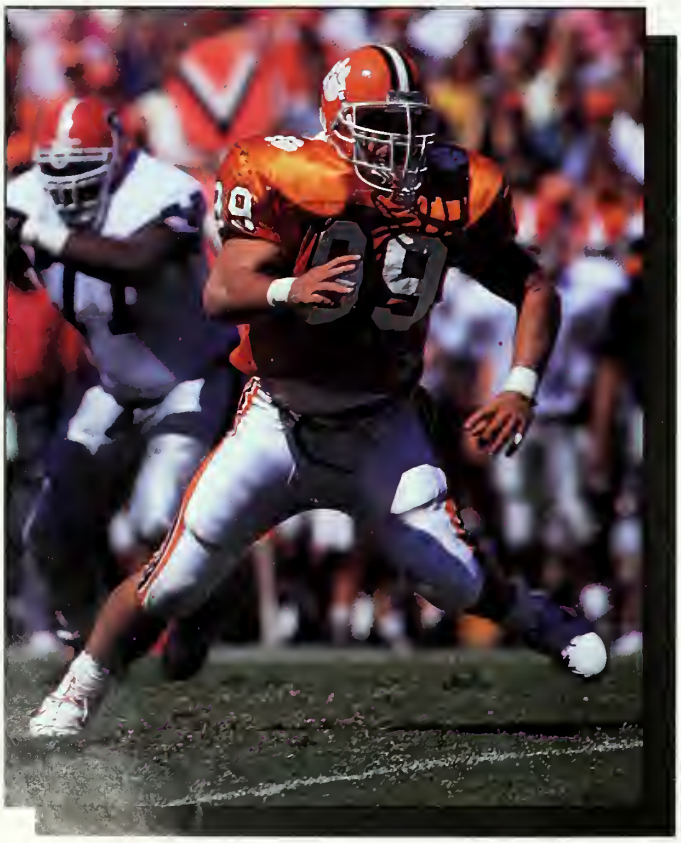
Last season when the Clemson defense captured the nation's top defense award there were many stars: John Johnson, a second-round pick of the San Francisco 49'ers; Jerome Henderson, a second-round pick of the New England Patriots, who is now a starter; Dexter Davis, a fourth-round choice of the Phoenix Cardinals; and Vance Hammond a fifth-round choice of the Cardinals who is on that club's practice squad. This year's Tiger squad also has no shortage of stars. From "Mr. Inside" Ed McDaniel, to "Mr. Outside" Levon Kirkland, the Tigers are again laden with great players. Defensive tackle Chester McGlockton was on everyone's preseason All-America list, and Robert O'Neal was a preseason candidate for the Thorpe Award.

It could certainly be said that senior Rob Bodine is the forest of the Clemson defense. Although he does not get the accolades that some other Tiger athletes receive from the media, this Tiger is making his name known on the statistics page and in coaching circles around the country. Bodine, a middle guard from Velva, North Dakota is leading the team in tackles (49) and tackles for loss (13) this season. In fact, Bodine is on a pace that would break the single season tackles for loss record, which is currently held by none other than William "Refrigerator" Perry. Fridge had 27 in his senior year, a total that led the country on a per game basis.

At a recent press conference, Head Coach Ken Hatfield let his feelings be known about the former walk-on who earned ACC All-Conference honors during the 1990 campaign. "Rob Bodine is playing as well as anybody on our football team," he said. "When I talked to coaches we have played against, they all tell me that they just could not block Rob Bodine."

Georgia Tech offensive lineman Mike Mooney, an all-star in his own right, also praised Bodine after Clemson's 9-7 victory over the Yellow Jackets on September 28. "Everyone talks about Chester McGlockton and Levon Kirkland and Ed McDaniel, but the heart of that Clemson defense is Rob Bodine. He is the guy who makes that defense."



Bodine needs just three tackles for loss to move to fourth on the all-time Clemson list. By the end of the season, only the Perry brothers will have more stops behind the line of scrimmage than Bodine.

How did the only native of North Dakota ever to play any sport at Clemson find his way to Tigertown? Bodine was raised in nearby Pickens before moving to Velva where he was an all-star linebacker and fullback in high school. After his freshman year at the University of North Dakota, Bodine was helping his mother move back to South Carolina.

"When I helped my mom move back down here I needed to go to summer school and enrolled at Clemson," he remembers. "After being around that summer I met Bruce Bratton and Jeb Flesch, who were in summer school at the time. They first put the idea in my head that I should try to play here. After talking to (former Tiger assistant) Coach Tom Harper he said I would be given a shot to play. Things just kind of fell into place after that."

After a year on the scout team at the linebacker position, Bodine was moved to fullback. This move might not be as surprising as one might think. "The coaches remembered that I had played some fullback in high school and decided to give me a chance at that position. As long as they were giving me a chance to show that I could contribute, I was willing to play anywhere.

"Everyone talks about Chester McGlockton and Levon Kirkland and Ed McDaniel, but the heart of that Clemson defense is Rob Bodine. He is the guy who makes that defense."

Mike Mooney
Ga. Tech Offensive Lineman

In the spring of 1989, Bodine was moved to the nose guard position, mainly due to the fact that Clemson just had one nose guard on the team. Since that time, Bodine has gone no where but up. During that 1989 season, all the first-year defensive player did was finish first in tackles among interior lineman.

Coach Les Herrin, Bodine's coach since he was moved to the defensive line, knows Bodine's formula for success. "Rob Bodine is the kind of player that you are lucky to have the opportunity to coach . No matter how much he has improved, he is still trying to get better each and every day. Rob is working as hard now as he was the first day he came to the defensive line."

Many people might have had some doubts that Bodine would find success at that position. After all, Rob only weighed in at 245 pounds and there are not too many 245 pound nose guards starting at the major college level. In fact he is the lightest middle guard at Clemson in 10 years, dating back to the days of Charlie Bauman.

"The key to playing middle guard is being able to think," says Bodine. "You have to feel which way the offensive player is trying to move you and be able to react to that. Size is a factor in some ways, but if you work hard at the mental aspect of the game and work hard in the weight room to get stronger, you can be a success. I think hard work is the difference in anything you do. If you give everything you have for every play you can be good at whatever, student, football player, or businessman."

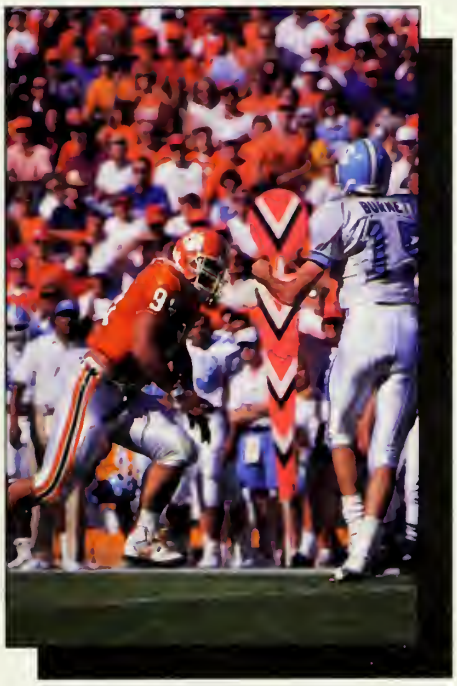
Coach Hatfield also notices the hard work that Bodine puts in. "I look at Rob and see how small he is and wonder how is he able to do everything that he does on the football field. He is such a motivator for everyone on this football team. I think Rob shows what can happen if you give everything you have. He will be a success in anything he does because of the hard work he will put into it."

Bodine's work habits have not gone unnoticed by other Tiger defenders either. Rob is certainly an inspiration to every member of this team. Linebacker Ashley Sheppard states, "When I look at Rob, he is not the most physically gifted athlete I have ever seen. But he is such a hard worker and so determined he shows everyone what hard work can accomplish."

Bodine has always been a hard worker, but this was never more evident in the winter of 1991. He suffered a knee injury in the pre Hall of Fame Bowl workouts in Orlando and was out for the game. Some wondered how effective he could be in 1991 after the injury.



Bodine was a member of Clemson's livestock judging team last Spring and hopes to own a farm after his playing days are over.

"That injury made me realize that I can't take anything for granted," he says. "The ability that you have as a football player can be taken away from you at any time. This made me understand that during the time you have a chance to play, you better give everything you have because every play could be your last play. "

Even in this tough situation Bodine made the best of it. "After that injury I had a lot of time on my hands. When the team would practice I would go to the weight room. Instead of doing the same lifts I tried to do different things that would make me stronger and quicker. This made a difference because the strength results tell me I'm stronger now than I was before the injury."

Head Strength Coach Gary Wade was impressed with the strides Bodine made after the injury. "Rob was one of those guys who didn't let an injury keep him down. Even though he was disappointed by being injured, he came to the weight room with the attitude that he was going to be a better player because of the injury."

Herrin echoes Wade's statements. "Nothing that Rob does surprises me. He made his mind up that this injury would not keep him down and it didn't. I tell you what, if he told me that he was going to ride a horse that had not been broken, I sure would not say that he could not do it. He is that type of person. When he puts his mind to something, there is no doubt in my mind that he will accomplish it."

The analogy of breaking a horse is appropo considering the fact that Bodine is an animal science major at Clemson. Off the field Rob has excelled just as much as he has on it. In the spring of this past year, he represented the university at a livestock judging competition at Ohio State University. "The animal science major is one that I enjoy. The professors are personable and enjoyable. I think the biggest key to me doing well in school is that after football, the things I am studying are what I am interested in doing for the rest of my life."

There are still goals left to be accomplished before Bodine rides into the sunset. This year's defense is making a name for itself, proving once again to be a tough unit. Bodine thinks there is still more that the defense can accomplish. "I think our defense could be better than last year's if we continue to work hard. As long as we make improvement from week to week that is all that I care about. We lost a lot of good players off last year's defense, but we will be hard to handle by the end of the season."

With the improvement of the Clemson defense and the eye-ooening stats he has accumulated so far, personal honors are also something that should come Bodine's way before finishing his senior season. "These type of things are important to me, but the most important thing to me on the football field is getting the 'W'.

"For myself, if I can stay healthy and play every game, it could be possible for me to get the tackles for loss record for a season. You sure can't say that you are going to get that many tackles, but if you set your goals high there is no telling what you might accomplish. I think last year was special for me because I was able to do things that some players can't do because of the people around me. With great players like we had last year, I was able to do more than I might have been able to do under normal circumstances."

With the type of year Rob Bodine is having, the thought of playing pro football does not seem out of the realm of possibility. Bodine, however, is not counting on that. "I am going to get my degree from Clemson before I even think about pro ball," says Bodine, who is scheduled to graduate in May. "To pin all my hopes on playing pro ball would be ridiculous."

In the event that he does play pro ball there is still something else that Rob Bodine wants to do with his life. "The last decade has been rough on agriculture, but hopefully I can get some money and buy a ranch somewhere. I can't imagine doing anything else with my life other than farming. I spent half the summer at my uncle's ranch in North Dakota and it was just great."

So even though Rob Bodine may sometimes get dwarfed by the "trees" that surround him, his hard work and his great attitude have made this "forest" one that may go down in history as one of the Tigers' best.

Dr. Max Lennon

The impact of Max Lennon's presidency on Clemson University's success and image is probably best measured by what third-party sources say about him. In an editorial marking Lennon's fifth anniversary as president, The Anderson Independent-Mail congratulated his accomplishments in raising the university's academic stature. The State newspaper dubbed him South Carolina's most influential figure in higher education and The Greenville News applauded his leadership in the successful "Campaign for Clemson".

Lennon's accomplishments at Clemson are easily documented: a capital campaign that reached its goal 18 months ahead of schedule; research funding that has more than doubled annually (up to $80 million a year); and a balanced strategic plan focusing on the environment, biotechnology, advanced materials and undergraduate teaching.

Recent state budgeting problems won't be allowed to stand in the way of Clemson's progress, Lennon pledges, but he notes that the greatest challenge facing Clemson today is finding a way to increase public understanding of and support for higher education.

Lennon also sees potential for national leadership in innovative public-service programs, such as those in agriculture, engineering and other disciplines that enabled Clemson to help South Carolinians recover from the devastation of Hurricane Hugo.

"Our goal is to become the model among land-grant universities by providing education with relevance," he said.

"As a land grant college, we have an obligation in rural development and to help eliminate the pockets of poverty and illiteracy that remain in this state. Education is the answer, and we have an obligation to make education accessible to all people."

Lennon came to Clemson from The Ohio State University, where he had been executive dean for agriculture, home economics and natural resources. Lennon was also on the Ohio State Faculty Senate and was co-chairman of the Governor's commission on agriculture.

Previously, he had served as dean of the College of Agriculture, and as director of the Agricultural Experiment Station at the University of Missouri, and as associate dean and director of research in the College of Agricultural Sciences at Texas Tech University.

Lennon is a native of Columbus County, NC and earned his bachelor's degree and doctorate from N.C. State University. He began his teaching career at N.C. State.

The Clemson president has been active in a number of civic and professional groups, ranging from his local Rotary Club and the South Carolina Research Authority to the Kellogg Foundation's EARTH Board, which aims to improve third world agriculture.

In the fall of 1987, Lennon was named to the board of trustees of the Farm Foundation, a national organization devoted to improving research and education to benefit rural areas. He is serving a four-year term as the university representative on the board, which also includes farmers, legislators and executives of leading agricultural industries.

Lennon was appointed in 1988 to the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Policy Advisory Committee for Science and Education Research Grants Program by Secretary of Agriculture Richard E. Lyng, and was a keynote speaker at the AgBiotech 88 International Conference in Washington.

Lennon was also appointed to chair a committee of top administrators and federal officials from 11 universities across the nation to work with congress on legislation relating to foreign assistance and international development. The committee is a project of the National Association of State Universities and land-grant colleges.

Lennon is married to Ruth Carter Lennon and they have two children, Daniel Ray (29) and Robin (26).

Lennon's Vision for Clemson's Future

"Clemson University will become the nation's leading technologically-oriented land-grant university. This end will be achieved through an uncompromising passion for excellence in undergraduate and graduate teaching, research and public service. The University will emphasize science, technology, and innovation and will be dedicated to providing a liberal education that fosters integrity, critical thinking, a global view, and leadership for a changing world."

Under Lennon's direction, Clemson reached its capital campaign goal 18 months ahead of schedule.

Head Coach Ken Hatfield

If auspicious beginnings hold any portent, Ken Hatfield is set for a stellar career at Clemson. When the 48-year-old coach took over the Clemson program in January of 1990, he was faced with the challenge of continuing the tradition of football excellence set in the eighties (only Nebraska and Miami had fewer losses in that time frame). Hatfield more than met that challenge, showing that the Tigers are definitely in good hands for the 1990s.

The victory over Illinois in the Hall of Fame Bowl made Hatfield the first Clemson coach to win 10 games in his first year and his .833 winning percentage is the best by a first-year Clemson coach since 1900 when John Heisman was 6-0. The 1990 season included six wins over teams with winning records. Only Georgia Tech had more.

Hatfield was just the eighth coach in the last 13 years to take a team to a Top 10 AP final ranking in his first year with the program. He is the first ACC coach in history to take a team to a final AP top 10 ranking in his first year at a school.

But Hatfield's impressive debut at Clemson was no big surprise to those who have followed his career. He has enjoyed success throughout his involvement with the sport of football, as a player and coach. He has now had a Top 15 team at three different schools, Air Force, Arkansas and Clemson.

As a player, he helped Arkansas face every challenge in 1964, when the Razorbacks had an 11-0 season and won the national title. As an assistant coach at Tennessee and Florida, he molded countless players into top-notch athletes who competed for Southeastern Conference titles, played in seven bowl games in a 10-year period, and ranked in the final top-20 five times. As a head coach, he took a dormant Air Force program to a number-13 national ranking and a pair of bowl wins. He continued to meet the challenges at Arkansas, his alma mater, guiding the Razorbacks to back-to-back Southwest Conference titles, something that had not been done at Arkansas since Hatfield was a player.

Hatfield has taken his teams to nine consecutive post-season bowls, including January 1 appearances four of the last five years. He is one of just five active coaches to take a team to a bowl each of the last nine years. He is in noteworthy company as the other members of that exclusive club are Tom Osborne (Nebraska), Pat Dye (Auburn), LaVell Edwards (BYU), and Bobby Bowden (Florida State).

Hatfield has an overall record of 91-51-2 (.639), but he has won 77 percent of his games over the last seven seasons (75-21-1). At Arkansas, he posted a record of 55-21-1 over six seasons, a .760 winning percentage. That percentage is second best in Southwest Conference history as only Darrell Royal (Texas 1957-76) had a better percentage. Hatfield's SWC winning percentage was higher than 11 former SWC coaches who are in the college Football Hall of Fame, including Bear Bryant, Frank Broyles, Jess Neely, and John Heisman.

The native of Helena, Arkansas, played in two bowl games with the Razorbacks, coached in seven post-season games as an assistant and the Hall of Fame Bowl marked the ninth in which he was the head coach. Six times he has coached a team to a top 15 final ranking in the AP poll, and he played on two other top 15 teams. The victory over Illinois in the Hall of Fame Bowl gave him six top-15 seasons in the last eight years.

Hatfield-coached clubs have excelled offensively and defensively, but they have been particularly successful in rushing offense and defense. Each of his last nine teams have finished in the top 20 nationally in rushing offense, including six top 10 finishes.

Two of his last four Arkansas teams finished in the top three in the country in turnover margin, including his 1988 team that was first in the nation (Clemson was second that same year). Defensively, his clubs have finished in the top 15 in the nation in rushing defense six of the last seven years. The Tigers ranked first in the nation in total defense, second in rushing defense, and second in scoring defense at the end of the 1990 regular season.

Hatfield has coached in four major conferences and with independent schools, giving him a diverse background in the finer points of the game. It is one reason he was named the third best teaching coach in college football by Inside Sports Magazine in 1990.

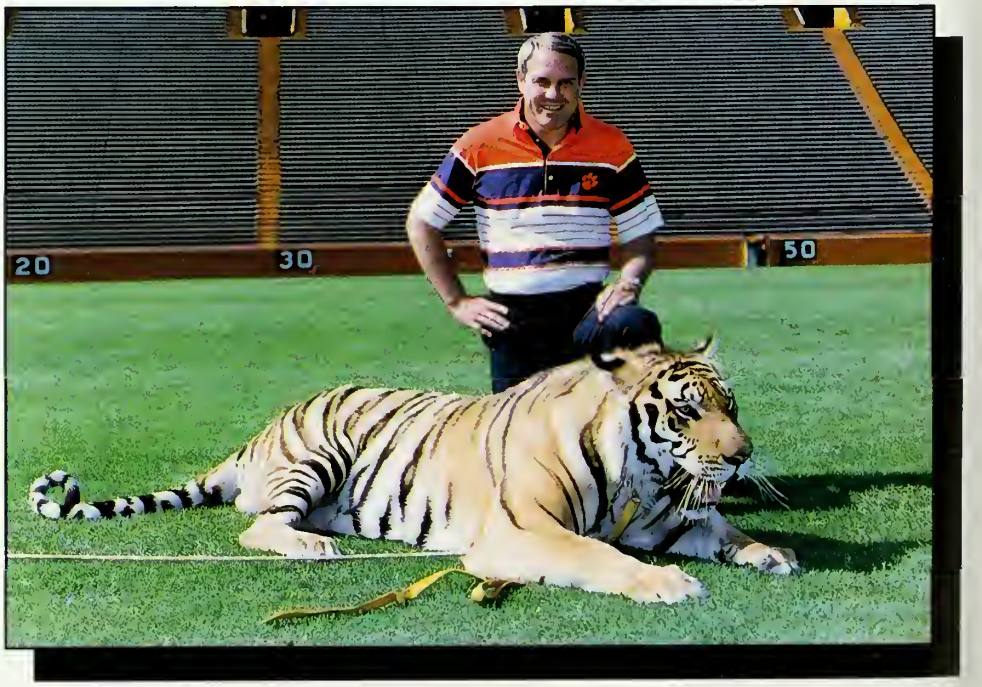
Hatfield began his coaching career immediately after graduation. In the fall of 1965, he served as an assistant coach at Helena-West Helena High School in Arkansas. In 1966, he moved to West Point, where he served as freshman coach for two seasons.

After the two-year stint at Army, he served as an assistant coach at Tennessee for three years (1968-70). The Volunteers went to post-season bowls all three seasons (including two major bowls), won three conference titles and ranked in the final top 20 of the AP poll all three seasons, including a number-four ranking in 1970.

In 1971, Hatfield began a seven-year stint at the University of Florida, spending four seasons as a defensive backfield coach and three as an offensive backfield mentor. Florida played in four bowl games during his career in Gainesville and two more Gator teams finished in the AP top 20, including the 1974 team that played Nebraska in the Sugar Bowl.

Hatfield became offensive coordinator at the Air Force Academy under former New York Giants head coach Bill Parcells in 1978. A year later, Parcells was wooed to the Big Apple and Hatfield became the Falcons' head coach. The Air Force program had not had a winning season since 1973. But by his fourth season, Hatfield had an eight-game winner, led Air Force to its first-ever victory over Notre Dame, and had taken the Falcons to a post-season bowl for the first time since 1971.

In 1983, Hatfield was named national Coach-of-the- Year by the Football Coaches



Ken Hatfield was just the eighth coach in the last 13 years to take a team to a Top 10 AP final ranking in his first year with the program.

Association (Bobby Dodd Award) after leading Air Force to a 10-2 season that included wins over Notre Dame, Navy and a bowl victory over Mississippi. It was the Academy's first-ever win over Notre Dame in South Bend.

The next year, Hatfield succeeded Lou Holtz at Arkansas, where he would take his alma mater to 55 wins in six seasons, six bowl appearances and four final top-15 rankings. His 1985 club finished with a 10-2 mark and number-12 national ranking, the Razorbacks' first Top 20 finish since 1982. Four times the Razorbacks rallied from fourth-quarter deficits to gain victory.

The 1986 campaign was another year of success with highlight victories over a nationally ranked Texas A&M club and the Razorbacks' first win in 20 years at Texas. Arkansas advanced to the Orange Bowl and finished 15th in the final AP poll.

Arkansas won the 1988 and 1989 Southwest Conference Championships. Hatfield was named Southwest Conference Coach-of-the-Year in 1988 as he took the Razorbacks to the league title and a 10-0 start. Miami (FL) defeated Arkansas 18-16 in the Orange Bowl to stop the streak. Seven players off the 1988 club (all recruited by Hatfield) were drafted by the NFL, an Arkansas single draft record.

After the 10-2 ledger and second straight SWC championship in 1989, Hatfield was named Southwest Conference Coach-of-the-Decade by the Houston Post. Included in the victories was a triumph over a top-15 Houston team and Heisman Trophy winner Andre Ware.

Hatfield has also had success off the field. The CFA cited his 1989 Arkansas class for excellence in terms of graduation rate (over 80 percent), one of the top 10 figures in the nation.

"Football is a part of a young man's education. He learns about himself by playing football," states Hatfield. "It gives him a perspective of how to handle defeat as well as victory. Our success at Clemson will be reflected in the lives of our players after they leave Clemson University. We want to help make them the best people they can be. We want to maximize their potential. That is our challenge."

These statements were certainly watchwords for Hatfield as a player and these experiences have helped him in his relationship with his players. Hatfield played for three years at Arkansas (1962-64) and he was a starter on the National Championship team of 1964. A defensive back by trade, he earned his fame as the nation's top punt returner in 1963 and 1964. He also finished as the runner-up as a sophomore and is still the only college football player to finish in the top two in the nation in punt returns three straight seasons.

His most memorable play took place against Texas in 1964 when he raced 81 yards with a punt return for a touchdown in Arkansas' thrilling 14-13 victory. It was the key victory in the Razorbacks' championship season. Altogether, Hatfield scored five TDs via punt returns in his career, including an Arkansas record 95-yard return against Tulsa in 1963.

An accounting major who earned his diploma in the spring of 1965, Hatfield was an Academic All-American in 1964 and was the recipient of the Swartz Award, presented annually to the top student-athlete at Arkansas. The 1964 All-SWC selection was inducted into the Arkansas Sports Hall of Fame in 1989.

Football Administrators

Assistant Athletic Director for Football Operations

Dick Ellis is in his second year at Clemson after the highly successful 1990 season in which the Tigers finished a 10-2 season with a Hall of Fame Bowl victory over Big Ten Co-Champion Illinois and a ninth place finish in the national rankings. However, Dick Ellis is no stranger to winning athletic programs. As a coach and administrator he has been part of successful programs at Air Force, Texas A&M and Arkansas prior to becoming a Tiger.

Ellis came to Clemson from the University of Arkansas where he served as the recruiting coordinator and administrative assistant under Coach Ken Hatfield. The 1989 University of Arkansas Razorbacks finished with a 10-1 regular season record and a trip to the Cotton Bowl as the Southwest Conference Champions.

Jim Goodman
Assistant Athletic Director for Recruiting and High School Relations

Jim Goodman is in his first year with the Clemson athletic department serving as Assistant Athletic Director for Recruiting and High School Relations. Goodman might be new at Clemson, but is certainly no stranger to Head Coach Ken Hatfield. Goodman formerly served under the Tiger head football coach at The Air Force Academy and at Arkansas.

Goodman, a Blountstown, FL, native boasts an extensive background in coaching and athletic administration. He comes to Clemson after a successful stint at Florida. The 1991 Florida recruiting class was rated the third-best in the nation by the National High School Recruiting Service and the seventh best by both SuperPrep magazine and Lemming's Prep Football Report.

Clemson Coaches

Clemson had one of the most successful all-around sports years ever as a record nine of the 18 teams finished in the top 15 of their respective polls. The highest ranked teams were women's cross country (third), soccer (fourth), and baseball (fourth). Clemson's women's basketball team was eighth in the final poll, while the football squad was ninth. For the first time ever, Clemson's all-around sports program was ranked among the top 15 in the nation in both men's and women's competition. The Clemson men's program ranked in a tie for seventh best, while the women's program finished in a tie for 13th.

The Tigers won four ACC Championships last year as the baseball team swept the ACC Tournament and finished the ACC regular season with an 18-3 mark, the best in school history. The women's track team was victorious at the ACC outdoor meet, giving the program its first ever conference championship in track, while the men's track squad won the ACC indoor and outdoor meets for the third consecutive year. Clemson boasted 62 All-ACC competitors last year, the third most in a single academic year, and had 27 All-Americans, an all-time record for All-American selections in a single academic year.

Three Clemson student-athletes were named the ACC's Most Valuable Performers for their respective sports. Anne Evans was honored after winning the ACC individual cross country championship. Donnie Heckel was the conference's top wrestler, while Kim Graham earned top ACC honors for the outdoor track season.

As far as academics are concerned, Clemson won both of the ACC's top student-athlete awards for 1990-91. Former track and cross country All-American Dov Kremer won the league's Jim Weaver Award as the top male student-athlete, while Kelly Long from the women's swim team won the Marie James Award for the ACC's top female scholar-athlete. The Tigers had 64 athletes selected to the Academic All-ACC squad.

Five Clemson coaches were also named ACC Coach-of-the-Year. These selections included baseball's Bill Wilhelm, who led his squad to the winningest season in Clemson history and a trip to the College World Series, Dr. I.M. Ibrahim (soccer), Eddie Griffin (wrestling), Bob Pollock (men's outdoor track), and Wayne Coffman (women's outdoor track).

IPTAY

At a time when our nation's hearts and prayers were with our friends and loved ones in the Persian Gulf, the traditions here at home seemed just as important. One important tradition at Clemson University is the success of IPTAY. As our nation was successful in its time of crisis, so were the faithful donors of IPTAY, who met another record-breaking year for the IPTAY Scholarship Foundation. This year marked the 27th consecutive year for donations to exceed the previous, while reaching a record-breaking total of $5.9 million towards its commitment for providing scholarships for student-athletes.

For the first time ever, Clemson's 1990-91 all-around sports program ranked among the top 15 in the nation in both men's and women's competition. The Clemson men's program ranked in a tie for seventh best in the nation with LSU, while the women's program finished in a tie for 13th with Penn State.

The poll was conducted by USA Today and took into account the final rankings in 10 major sports.

Clemson's top 10 ranking in the men's program was nothing new as it marked the seventh time it had happened in the last 12 years. The highest ranking ever for the men's program was a number-three finish in 1979-80.

The number-13 finish for the Lady Tiger program last year was the highest ranking ever. The previous best was a tie for 18th finish in 1986-87. The 1990-91 season was the fourth time in the last five years that the Clemson women's program ranked in the top 30 in the country.

Clemson had one of its most successful all-around sports years ever as a record nine of the 18 teams finished in the top 15 of their respective polls. The highest ranked teams were the women's cross country team (third), soccer team (fourth), and baseball team (fourth). Clemson's women's basketball team was eighth in the final USA Today poll, while the Clemson football team was ninth.

Over the last five years, 16 of Clemson's 18 teams have been ranked in the top 25 in the country at one time or another. During this time the Clemson football, women's cross country and golf teams have been in the top 25 all five years, while the women's basketball, women's swimming, men's indoor track, baseball, and women's tennis teams have had four top 25 seasons.

The success of the Clemson athletic program comes during a time when the integrity and accountability of the academic progress of student-athletes are receiving national attention. IPTAY has been a large part of this success by being committed to the student-athlete.

IPTAY is recognized as one of the oldest, largest and most successful athletic fundraising organizations in America. IPTAY was the first athletic fundraising organization in the country to top the two, three, four and five-million marks in annual donations. The 1990-91 academic year marked the 27th consecutive year of increased contributions to the IPTAY scholarship fund.

In 1934, Dr. Rupert Fike founded IPTAY with a very simple purpose in mind: IPTAY provides funds for athletic scholarships. Clemson continues to be one of the few schools in the nation to award the maximum number of scholarships allowed by the NCAA for 18 men's and women's varsity sports. Since 1934, IPTAY has provided scholarships for over 5,000 student-athletes, trainers and managers.

IPTAY currently provides the funds for tutorial programs staffed by trained academic advisors, assisted by graduate and undergraduate students. This support is intended to assure that all student-athletes are given the opportunity to earn their degree while participating in athletics.

IPTAY donors have played an intricate role in the "Campaign for Clemson," a long-range fundraising project of the University. The University's overall goal of $62 million was raised to $78 million goal ending in June of 1992. IPTAY provided $2.5 million with ongoing opportunities for donors to be a part of the Learning Center.

Vickery Hall, the new Learning Center on East Campus, is a 29,000 square foot facility that houses the tutoring and advising programs for student-athletes. The building contains various-sized study and tutoring rooms to be used for individual study, as well as small group instruction. Computer facilities, an office/reception area for the advising staff and an auditorium also are contained in the center.

The generous support of 18,200 loyal donors to IPTAY has allowed the organization to go beyond the funding of athletic scholarships by providing the financial basis for many of the unparalleled athletic facilities at Clemson.

Since 1978, IPTAY has provided the funding for $34 million of capital improvements in the area of athletics. These improvements include the expansion of the football stadium, the newly renovated baseball facility (Tiger Field), the indoor tennis facility, the soccer stadium, the new outdoor track, the weight room, the new golf practice area, a new cross country course, and the IPTAY/Ticket Office facility.

IPTAY is also proud to provide funding for the Tiger Band. Each year, IPTAY budgets financial support for travel, uniforms and equipment for this integral part of the Clemson athletic program.

While IPTAY is primarily concerned with athletic fundraising, the mission of Clemson University has not been overlooked. The IPTAY Academic Scholarship Endowment was created to help meet the need for more academic scholarships for non-athletes who are highly qualified academically. This scholarship endowment is funded by certain company gifts which are made as a result of employee contributions to IPTAY. In addition, the athletic department has made generous contributions to the endowment from athletic revenues.

The IPTAY Academic Fund is presently the largest scholarship endowment of any kind at Clemson, providing $1.52 million in funds, currently benefitting more than 50 students. IPTAY's support extends to all of the student body.

The tremendous success of IPTAY is due, in large part, to the organizational makeup which allows donors to be as close to IPTAY as they are to their local IPTAY leadership. Each of South Carolina's 46 counties has an IPTAY County Chairman, and every county is alloted an IPTAY representative for every 35 donors.

This year's IPTAY circuit was highlighted by IPTAY president, Eddie Dalton, who attended every District meeting in January and every Clemson Club Meeting in April and May.

IPTAY donors are kept up-to-date with Clemson athletics through The Orange and White. This is an official IPTAY publication which is distributed exclusively to IPTAY donors in appreciation of their support.

Clemson University will continue to be recognized and respected on the national level athletically and academically with the full support of IPTAY. IPTAY will continue to be successful because a loyal commitment to Clemson University is a way of life in the hearts of Clemson alumni and friends.

Allison Dalton is in his seventh full year as the leader of America's number-one athletic scholarship fund raising organization.

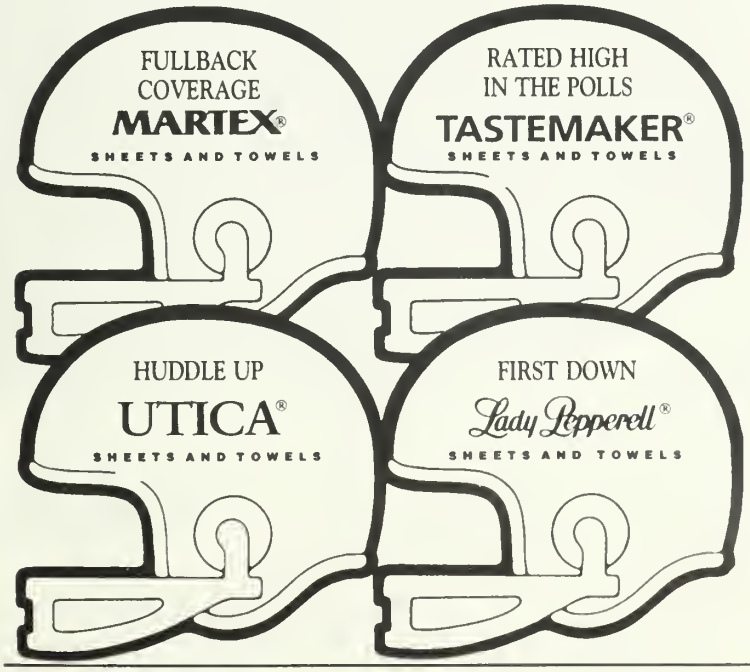
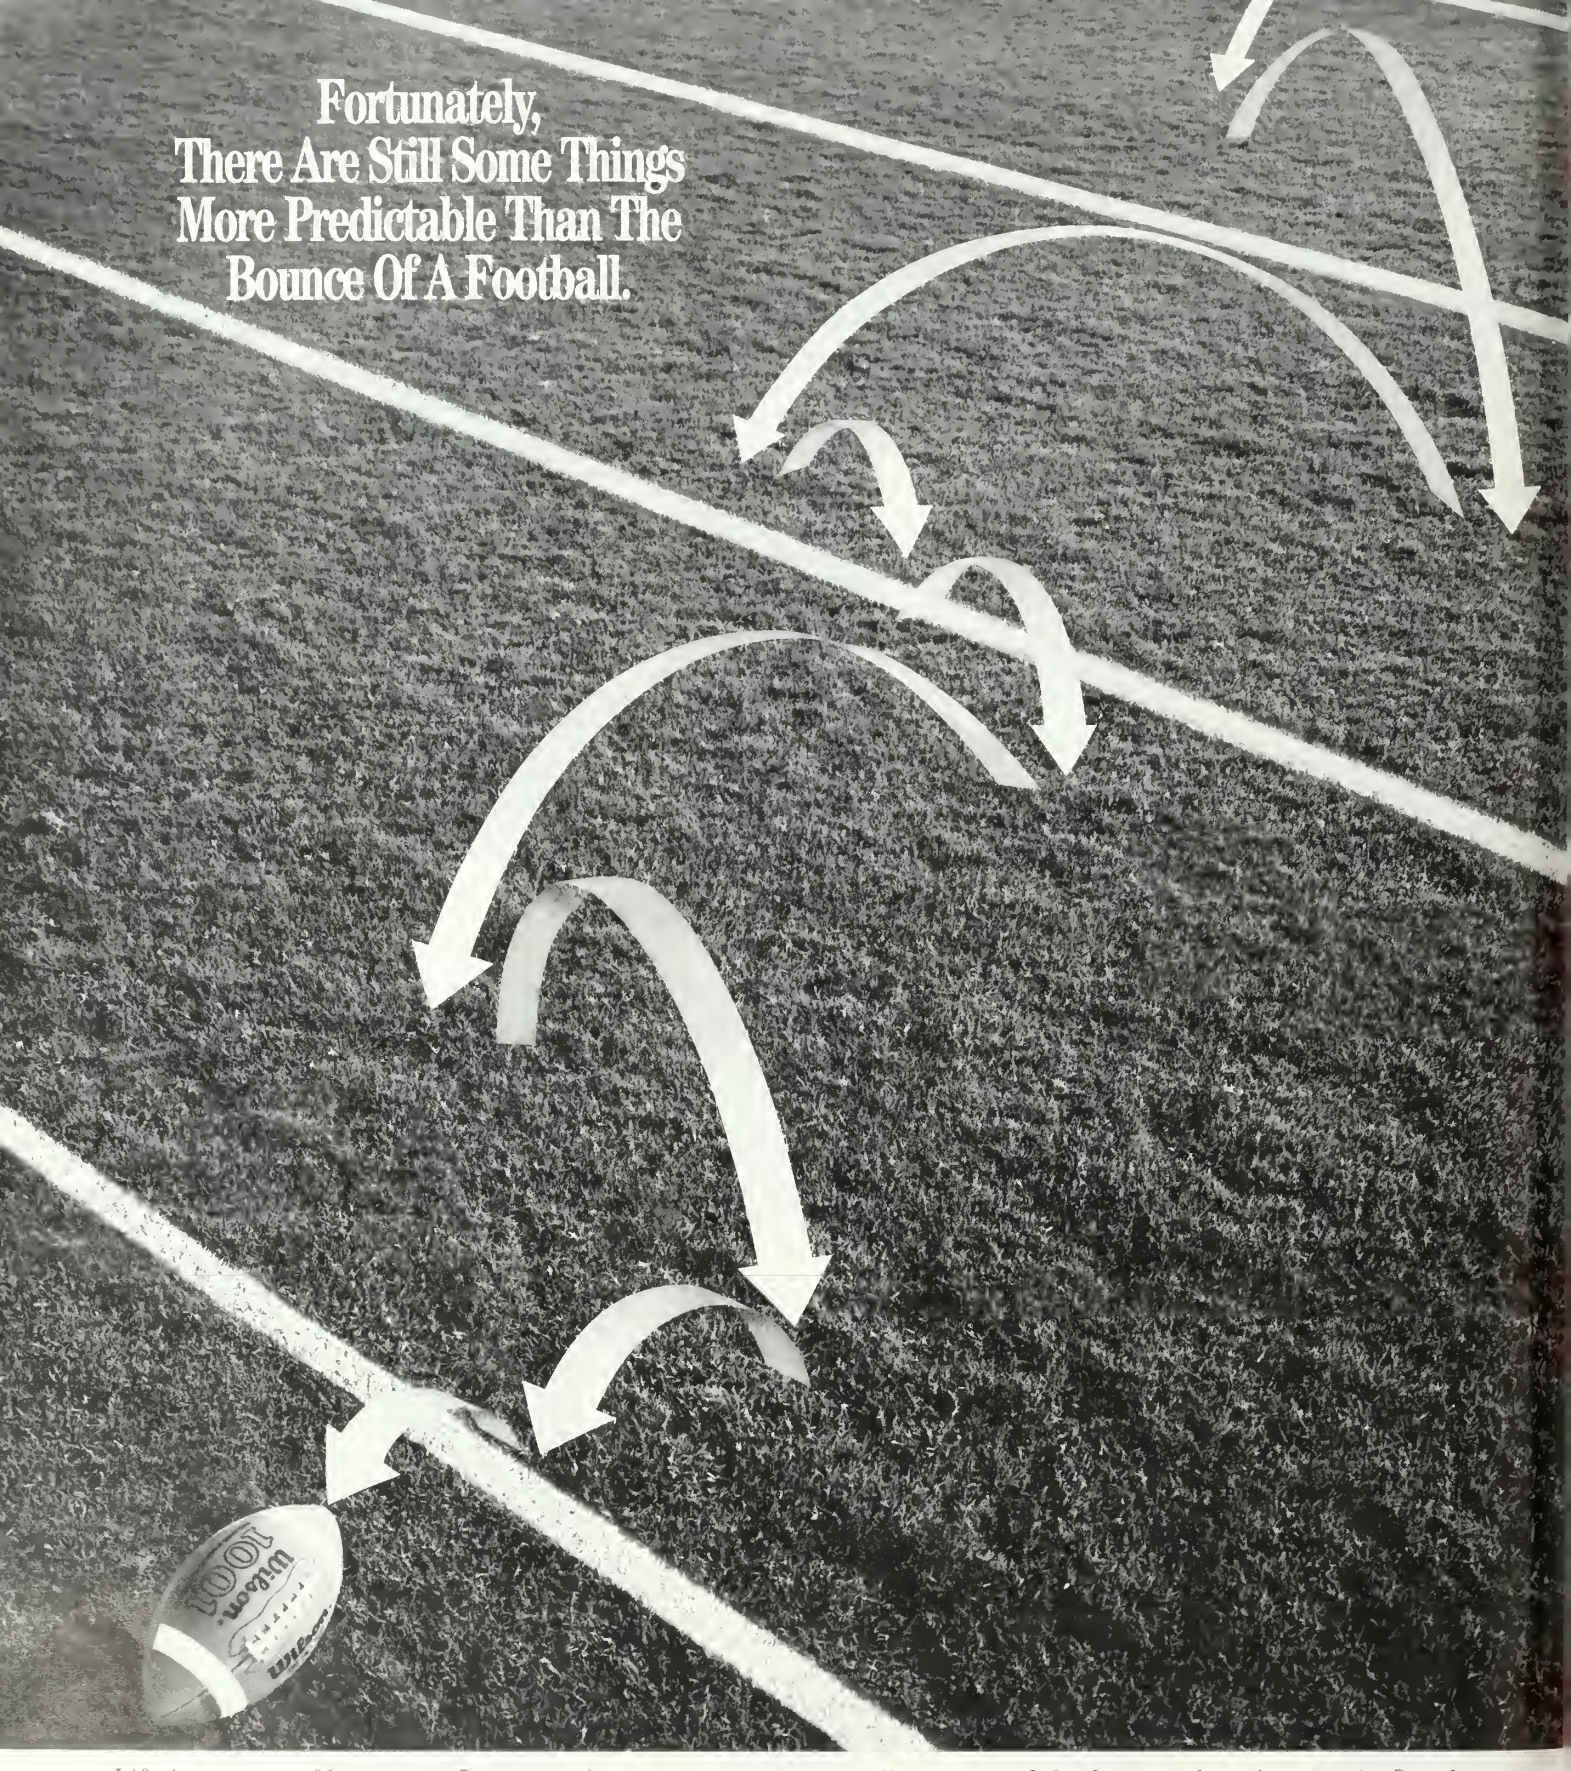
West Point-Pepperell has a lot in common with football. . .



...and we measure our gains in yards, too.

West Point-Pepperell, Inc.



Life is a game of bounces. Some good, some not so good.

But through all those ups and downs, isn't it comforting to know that you can count on the people at SCE&G to keep your energy flowing?

So your lights go on with the flick of a switch. Your home stays comfortable no matter what the weather outside. And your shower is hot every morning.

All at some of the lowest electric rates in South Carolina. And in the country*.

So no matter who wins this game, the power will be on again tonight.

And the sun will come up again tomorrow.

SCE&G
A SCANA Company

Providing The Right Energy Answers.

*Edison Electric Institute, Typical Bill Survey, January 1991. SCE&G has the lowest rates of investor-owned utilities in SC and ranks 87th lowest of 213 investor-owned utilities in the country.

John Heisman

By Sam Blackman

Tucked away in the northern most corner of South Carolina, tiny Clemson Agriculture and Mechanical College was about to become one of the most feared powerhouses in the south with the addition of the then unknown John Heisman as Head Football Coach in 1900.

Walter Merritt Riggs, an engineering professor at Clemson, served as head of the Clemson Athletic Association (present day Athletic Director) during this time. He also served as Head Coach of Clemson's football teams in 1896 and 1899. After the first four years of football at Clemson, the Athletic Association was financially able and determined to hire a full time coach. In fact donations and pledges were taken and the Football Aid Society was born in December, 1899. Within one hour of a meeting, $372.50 were collected, quite a large sum in that day. This organization had Professor Riggs search for a football coach—Riggs had one person on his mind, John Heisman.

Riggs described his reasoning for securing Heisman.

"In the spring of 1894, I was graduate manager of the football team at Auburn. It was my duty to find a coach for the season of 1895.The University of Pennsylvania had one of the most successful teams in the east, so I wrote to Carl Williams, the Penn football captain, asking him to suggest some suitable man. He replied recommending one J.W. Heisman, an ex Penn player, an old coach of his while at Oberlin. He did not know Heisman's whereabouts at the time but gave his home address."

After several weeks of searching, Riggs finally found Heisman in all places, Texas, engaged in raising tomatoes. He had sunk about all of his money in the tomato venture that seemed to be going nowhere, and he was glad to go back to his old love of coaching football, and Riggs and Heisman readily came to terms. He received $500.00 a year to coach Auburn.

Riggs later thought acquiring Heisman for Auburn may have not been the right move for the Alabama college, and he thought he may have rushed into an agreement as he describes.

"I shall never forget my first impressions of Heisman when I met him at the depot in Auburn several days after I hired him. Looking at his rather small statue and begrimed as he was with the travel strains of a long journey, I could not but feel that we had again made a mistake in the selection of a coach-we had made several before.

"But it did not require many days of practice and a few games to show that the Auburn team was in the hands of a master. We felt that in Heisman we had found the right man."

Heisman's success at Auburn made a lasting impression on Riggs. And from this impression, Riggs carried a dream to Clemson as he arrived at the small military college to become an engineering professor in 1896. His vision was to have Heisman join him at Clemson one day to coach football.

When Riggs arrived, no football had ever been played at Clemson, and only one student had ever seen the game played. However against the odds, that fall of 1896, Clemson fielded its first football team. The students knew Riggs had been associated with football at Auburn, and on September 30, 1896, a group of students decided to form the Clemson College Football Association. This group asked Riggs to be their coach and he readily accepted. As Riggs would write, this was a beginning of a long and hard struggle.

"From that kick in 1896, it was a four-year struggle to lay a foundation that might enable me to realize an ambition that I had cherished ever since leaving Auburn-to get Heisman at Clemson to coach football. By 1899, the Clemson football team had risen steadily until its material was equal to that of any southern college and the time had come to put on the long, planned finished touch—obtain Heisman for Clemson."

Riggs went to Birmingham and secured John Heisman as coach of Clemson on December 8, 1899.

Riggs later wrote about Heisman and his ability to coach the young men and teach them about this new collegiate past time—football.

"As a coach, there is no other like Heisman. Each of Heisman's plays is worked out with a finish that marks him as a great artist. No detail is lacking, no weakness unforeseen or unprovided for, and hence when his play goes off it is not always easy to tell why they gain unless one knows the nicety with which each component part is adjusted. What the few great painters and great musicians are to their professions, Heisman is to football.

Perhaps one reason Heisman was so successful is because of the love and respect he had for the players and the players for him. As stated by professor Riggs, he hated to waste time, and he hated to see his player waste time.

"Every minute of practice was utilized to the fullest. At practice, he took little stock in preliminaries, believing that the best way to learn football was to play the game. Every evening, he drilled his pupils in the fine points of the game in a knowledge of the rules. But most importantly he admonished his players to keep up with their studies and other college work and he insisted that while a student has time for football and studies he has little time for anything else. "

John Heisman led the Tigers to a record of 19-3-2 in his four-year career in Clemson.

Heisman's players were smart, quick, and alert, not necessarily big and bulky. Riggs, in an article about Heisman, stated that the mental part of the game was important to him.

"Heisman did not neglect that matter of prime importance in football-development of the mental element. The proper moulding of mind and will for a great contest means as much for success as prime physical condition."

As author of the book Principles of Football, Heisman broke down football into these percentages: talent, 25: aggressiveness, 20; mentality, 20; speed, 20; and weight, 15.

Another example of never underestimating the opponent and keeping the team mentally prepared in the game occurred when Heisman coached at Georgia Tech. Heisman's powerful machine took a 126-0 lead at halftime. He told his players "You are doing all right, team. We are ahead. But you just can't tell what those Cumberland players have up their sleeves. They may spring a surprise. Be alert, men! Hit them clean, but hit them hard. The final score was Georgia Tech 222, Cumberland 0.

"Mr. Heisman's pupils respected their coach," stated Riggs. "Every athlete with whom he came in contact is his devoted friend and every player feels that if he failed to do his best, when the play came to an end, they had disappointed in a personal way a friend, who had labored for him and in his interests."

John Heisman led Clemson to a record of 19-3-2 in his four- year career at Clemson. In 1900, Clemson had its first undefeated team. In 1902, the Tigers won the SIAA (Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Association) Championship. The SIAA was a conference that all the major colleges and universities belong to during this era.

On November 26, 1903, Clemson and Cumberland met for the championship of the entire southern region. The contract for the game was drawn up just two weeks before the game was to be played. The game ended in an 11-11 tie. This game was probably the most significant Clemson game played until the 1940 Cotton Bowl game, and was the Tigers' first "unofficial bowl game."

John Heisman left Clemson and took over the Georgia Tech Program and acquired more national fame. Riggs later became president of Clemson. Of course, the famed Heisman Trophy is named for John Heisman and is presented each year by New York's Downtown Athletic Club.

Although Riggs laid a foundation for the football program at Clemson and waited four years to secure the services of John Heisman at Clemson, the results were well worth the wait. Heisman had ushered in the golden era of football at the small military school in Clemson, SC.

It was a good thing that Riggs talked him out of tomato farming because the nation and Clemson might not have had the privilege and prestige of having one of the nation's best, if not the best coach, and collegiate football legends pacing the sidelines.

Kelvin Hankins

By Annabelle Vaughan

Whenever those who know him best are asked to describe Kelvin Hankins, Clemson's starting offensive tackle, the words "laid-back" are always included somewhere in the description. Characteristics such as "quiet" and "easy-going" are also words oft-repeated when Hankins is the topic of conversation.

Hankins disputes none of these attributes. In fact, it takes only a few minutes observing or talking with the Camden, NJ, native to realize that this 6-3, 298-pounder really does fit the description of the proverbial "gentle giant."

Although he may be one of the most well-liked members of the 1991 Tiger squad, Hankins may also be one of the most reticent Tigers. When things don't go his way, he usually keeps his opinions to himself. And even though he is very pleasant to speak with, he is obviously uncomfortable in an interview when the subject is himself.

"I'm not really shy," says Hankins in a voice that doesn't agree with his statement. "I'm just quiet and very laid back. I try to respect everybody, treat everybody right and keep quiet. I take things seriously, but I don't let a lot get to me."

There have been plenty of things that could have gotten to Hankins over the past several years, but he has emerged from his hardships with the same easy-going attitude that he claims to have harbored since he was a child. Hankins was reared in Camden, NJ, a city that has become infamous for its reputation for violence and crime. "Camden's pretty rough," says Hankins. "Its just like any other big city these days. There are a lot of drugs there. I guess it might be harder to come out of a place like Camden and be successful."

As a youngster, Hankins found that football was more enticing than getting into trouble, and he found great success on the gridiron. The only Clemson offensive lineman ever to be named a first-team USA Today All-American, Hankins was also a member of the Parade, Sporting News and Bally All-America squads. Recruiting geru Max Emfinger called him the number-one lineman in the nation heading into his senior season. While playing on the offensive and defensive sides of the ball, he posted an average blocking grade of 95 percent, while accumulating 105 tackles and causing four fumbles as a senior.

But the violence of his surroundings was inescapable. Rumor has it that when a coach from the University of Southern California came on a recruiting visit during Hankins senior year at Woodrow Wilson High School, he took a wrong turn and was robbed. Perhaps that is one of the reasons the laid-back Hankins decided to play his college ball in an atmosphere more similar to his easy-going personality.

But college ball would have to wait a year or so, as Hankins realized just after graduation from high school that he would have to sit out his freshman season due to proposition 48. "High school was great," he remembers. "I had fun and I had success. But then I got here and found out that I wouldn't be able to play for a while because of Prop 48. I just accepted it, that I would come to school and get ready for the next season. It was hard because I felt like I wasn't really a part of the team. Everybody would be at practice and I would be in the dorm by myself. But I just kept on looking toward the future. It never worried me that I was a prop 48 and that they said that most props don't make it."

In accordance with his easy-going nature, Hankins also found that despite the obvious negative aspects of losing a year of eligibility, there were some positive side effects. "I think it gave me an advantage in a way because it gave me time to be a regular student," Hankins remembers. "Even though I missed not playing football and I think I got behind by not being able to play or practice that whole year, I got to be a regular student and that is something most of the guys never get to do. I think there was also an advantage in that we had a chance to learn how to study better."

Hankins hopes that in the not-so-distant future, he will go down in the Clemson annals as one of the first proposition 48 success stories. He is well on track to graduate in the summer of 1992. "It hasn't been easy, but I wouldn't say I've struggled. With the tutors and things that are available to help you here, it is not as much of a struggle as it could have been. But am I a success story? Not yet. I will be when I graduate. Graduating will mean as much to me as anything I could do with football. I will be the first in my family to graduate from college and that means a lot to all of them."

Hankins was a first-team USA Today high school All-American, the only Clemson offensive lineman so honored by the publication.

And Hankins is also enjoying success on the football field as well. Although he gained considerable experience playing behind consensus All-American Stacy Long for two years, 1991 is his first as a full-time starter. So far, he has posted decent blocking grades, and his nine knockdown blocks versus Virginia were the most for a Tiger offensive tackle since Long had 10 versus N.C. State in 1989.

The only place where Hankins' laid-back demeanor has gained less than positive feedback at times has been on the football field. "People always tell me that I need to be more enthusiastic and need to get more into the game, when I really am into it. I stay calm, but I'm just being myself. That doesn't mean that I'm not playing hard."

Linebacker Ed McDaniel was Hankins' roommate for their first four years at Clemson and according to Hankins, knows him better than anyone. "Hank is easy-going with everything," says McDaniel, "but, he has his priorities straight. I think you could definitely put him in the category of a success story. He was one of the best players in the country coming out of high school, but then he prop-48ed. A lot of people would have gotten a bad attitude about that, but his attitude stayed the same. People say he doesn't show enough emotion, but he will put it on the line in a game. If I were a running back, I would run behind him. He may not be as loud as most people, but he's giving it all he's got."

As head of Clemson's Academic Learning Center and Hankins' former position coach, Bill D'Andrea has seen Hankins struggle and mature both athletically and academically during his years as a Tiger. "Kelvin is very special to me," says D'Andrea. "I really like him because he is genuine. He has had to overcome a lot, but he has matured and has come out on top. He is probably one of the most well-liked guys on the team even though he is so laid back."

The Tiger

Clemson fans have much to look forward to as they head to the upstate on Saturday afternoons during football season. They eagerly anticipate tailgating, getting a Tiger paw painted on their faces, watching the Tigers run down the hill, and then watching them win a great game. But there is one sidelight to a Clemson game that all young eyes, and some older ones, can not wait to see: THE TIGER. For almost 37 years, the man in stripes has been entertaining the young and old at Clemson athletic events.

In those 37 years, THE TIGER has been seen in all kinds of unlikely place doing all kinds of unlikely things. They have climbed goal posts, been carried up the stadium in the arms of rabid fans, ridden motorcycles and wrestled with live bears. They have kissed beauty queens and even shook hands with the President of the United States. They have marched with opponents' bands and danced with their dancers. They have also won shouts of laughter by their good-humored imitation of officials. But the place THE TIGER spends most of his time is doing his most famous Tiger tradition — The Pushup.

The pushup tradition began in the fall of 1978 when THE TIGER mascot Zack Mills began doing pushups for every point Clemson scored. This is no mean feat considering the pushups are done cumulatively. When the Tigers with the helmets score their first touchdown, THE TIGER with the tail does seven pushups. When they score their second, he does 14, not just seven more. During the season, Mills established the NCAA single-season mark of 1,334 pushups in 12 games.

In 1981, the Tiger football team scored 338 points in 12 games. Capps spent a happy New Year's Day doing pushups as the Tigers became the National Champions. He concluded his season with 1,144 pushups, almost doubling his 1980 output, and he ended his career with 1,755 pushups. Capps might have had an easier job in the marines than he had on Halloween Day in 1981. Clemson scored 82 points against Wake Forest, setting four conference records and three stadium marks. While the team was running in and out of the end zone, Capps was pumping out a total of 465 pushups, a single game total that may never be broken.

The mascot from Wake Forest gave his effort to the cause when Clemson scored its 76th point that afternoon. Capps was near the point of exhaustion, so the Deacon did 76 pushups for THE TIGER as the fans counted the total. By the time Clemson pushed the score up to 82 points, Capps was sufficiently rested and completed all 82. Tiger Band recognized Capps at the 1982 Orange Bowl by inviting him to dot the "I", an honor usually reserved for dignitaries.

For the last two seasons, Will Sykes, a senior engineering major from Greenville, SC, has been in THE TIGER suit.

"The funniest thing I ever did was when alternate mascot Glen Williams and I started cooking chicken wings in front of the student section, " said Sykes. "The Clemson Fire Chief saw the fire we had built on the television monitor and it took about five seconds before a security person relayed the message down to the field to put out the fire. I guess it was a little too big. Next time we will unplug the Fire Chief's television.

"Another infamous moment was when we were playing Virginia in front of a CBS national television audience, and there was a capacity crowd in Death Valley," remembered Sykes. "The Hill was really crowded and students were holding huge balloons all along side the rug. I could barely see the band on the field. Usually the television crew knows the routine of how and when the team runs down "The Hill", however, this time they didn't. The cameraman told me to fire the cannon, and I told him I didn't think the band was ready. So I fired the cannon and when I got to the bottom of the hill, I realized I had fired it about 20 seconds too early. Fortunately no one got hurt, the players made it through the band and I survived the attack from the band director and a few trombone players."

This year Sykes has the opportunity to break the most pushups in an overseas game when he makes his first overseas trip to Toyko as the Tigers play Duke in the Coca-Cola Bowl on November 30th.

THE TIGER has become so popular that every two years he sheds his fur for a new coat. Today's coat (uniform) weighs about 10 pounds dry and after a couple of hours in the suit during a game that 10 pounds changes to 40 pounds.

The Tiger Lilies are a group of outstanding young women at Clemson University who act as hostesses for football prospects and their families during their unofficial and official visits to Clemson University and Death Valley.

A typical Saturday game day involves the Tiger Lily being at Death Valley approximately four or five hours prior to the game to greet the recruit as he and his guests arrive. The Lily takes the recruit on a tour of the athletic facilities and Clemson's Death Valley. The group then goes to the sidelines of Frank Howard Field to watch the Fighting Tiger football team warm up for the afternoon's game, and from there to their seats in the stands. The Tiger Lily answers any questions the recruit or his family may have about Clemson University and generally acts as a hostess for the day.

A Tiger Lily is selected after numerous interviews and gives freely of her time to promote Clemson University and its athletic programs.

Tiger Band

By Beth McInnis

Today the Clemson Tiger football team faces the North Carolina State Wolfpack in the 11th annual Textile Bowl. Both schools are known throughout the southeast for outstanding programs in the textile industry. The similarities do not end there, though. Both schools are also known for their programs in agriculture, engineering and architecture. The similarities do not end there, either.

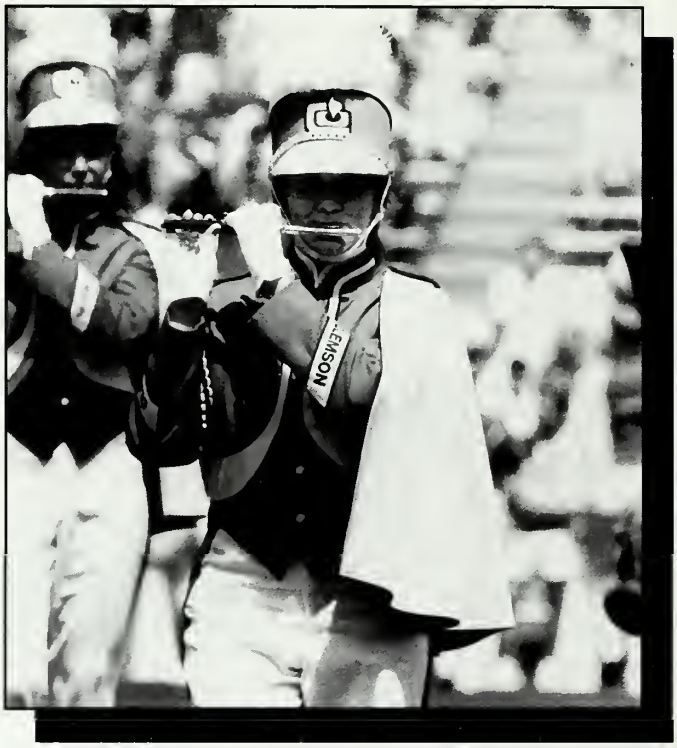
Both schools are proud of their heritage and spirit. The N.C. State varsity cheerleaders have won National Cheerleading championships over the past few years and N.C. State is sure to have a strong crowd following wherever it plays. That brings us to the Clemson tradition.

Clemson fans can not think about football season without humming the tune of TIGER RAG to themselves with a little grin on their face. The mere thought of Clemson football is one bursting with excitement and spirit.

The Clemson University Tiger Band is synonymous with Clemson spirit. Wherever the Tigers are, the band is right behind. That is dedication. This year's Tiger Band boasts over 250 hardworking members. It is comprised of over 200 winds, 30 percussionists and a 30 person color guard. Practice for Tiger Band involves seven hours per week for each member and a pre-dawn practice conducted on the soccer field prior to the game. This practice is followed by a parade to the stadium which no longer goes around Johnstone Hall due to the ongoing construction.

As they reach the stadium, Tiger Band strikes up "TIGER RAG" to excite the already-excited crowd.

Dotting the "I" today is Margaret C. Beaty of Spartanburg, SC. Margaret is the SCTMA 1991 Textile Citizen of the Year. She is a cost analyst at the Roger Milliken Research and Customer Service office in Spartanburg. She has served on the joint computer programming/accounting advisory committee at R.D. Anderson and Daniel Morgan area vocational centers since 1982. Most of her work has been at R.D. Anderson where she developed their first computer training program. This program has been used as a model throughout the state. She provided R.D. Anderson students with actual business applications on microcomputers and wrote a program in Visicalc as a training tool for students. She has also arranged tours and instruction in different computer job applications at Milliken.



Tiger Band comprises over 250 hardworking members.

After the traditional dotting of the I, Professor Mark Greer conducts the Clemson University Chorus in the singing of "America the Beautiful". The invocation will be given this afternoon by Deb Grant of the Lutheran Student Ministry.

Following the invocation, Dr. Richard Goodstein, conducts the "Star-Spangled Banner" as the colors are presented by the Pershing Rifle Company C-4.

Okay, Tiger fans, cue the goosebumps. After the singing of the National Anthem, Tiger Band presents the Clemson University Alma Mater. As they line up in the two lines to receive the Tiger football team, the band strikes up "Sock it to 'em!" Meanwhile, the team has already boarded two buses and traveled the perimeter of the stadium. As they unload the buses, they each rub Howard's famous rock and when the band breaks into "TIGER RAG", the team runs down the hill and into Death Valley for the 222nd time.

Today's halftime show features a Classic Rock Review by Tiger Band. The band opens the show with the classic hit "I Can See For Miles and Miles." Joining Tiger Band for the middle number, will be Clemson's own championship dance team, The Rally Cats. The two perform to Stevie Wonder's dance tune, "Uptight". Tiger Band closes today's Textile Bowl halftime show with another classic,"Hush", by Deep Purple. Exiting the field in the traditional spelling of CLEMSON, Tiger Band plays "The Song That Shakes the Southland" as only they can play it —— "TIGER RAG!"

Today as we salute the textile industry and two schools known in the southeast for their fine textile colleges, Tiger Band again makes every Tiger fan, student, and alumnus proud of their school's spirit.

Emergency Services

By Christine Kelly

The Clemson University Athletic Department provides the following for your safety and emergency medical needs:

1. Advanced cardiac life-support stations in four locations (North stands, Upper North deck, South stands, Upper South deck). These units are staffed with skill-care nurses, physicians, cardiologists, internists, paramedics, and EMTs.
2. Mobile units of EMTs and paramedics are strategically located throughout the entire stadium.
3. Ambulances with life-support equipment are available in North stand and South stand areas and have prearranged routes for evacuation to local hospitals.

Learn to recognize these personnel and facilities.

WHAT TO DO IF EMERGENCIES ARISE

Please step back and give the organized EMS personnel room to work. Well-intentioned attempts to help by untrained persons interfere with the efficiency of the EMS system. If you have basic or advanced training in specific life-support methods, make your qualifications known and offer your help. Untrained personnel can be frequently more harmful than helpful.

Most emergencies occurring at the stadium result from pre-existing medical conditions. Bring your medical identification card or wear medical identification jewelry. Moderation is the key with dress, food, beverage intake and physical exertion. Our two more frequent serious medical problems at football games are allergic reactions to insect stings and heart attacks.

INSECT STINGS: Common at outdoor events. Treat immediately with ice. Seek medical advice. If allergic, carry a kit from your physician with you.

HOW TO RECOGNIZE A HEART ATTACK: The symptoms of a heart attack vary, but the usual warning signs are:

1. Uncomfortable pressure, fullness, squeezing or pain in the center of your chest lasting for two minutes or more.
2. Pain spreading to the shoulders, neck, jaw, arms, or back.
3. Dizziness, fainting, sweating, nausea and/or shortness of breath.

Expect a Denial

Frequently heart attack victims deny they're having a heart attack. The event is frightening or they don't want the embarrassment of a false alarm. Therefore, they delay getting help by ignoring their symptoms or rationalizing, "it's just indigestion."

Find out what's really wrong. Prompt response can dramatically increase chances of survival and recovery.

New therapies have been developed that can minimize heart damage and save lives if treatment begins within the first few hours of symptom onset. "Time is muscle." Get help or get to a hospital immediately.

IT IS A REQUIREMENT, NOT A LUXURY, TO PROTECT THE ENVIRONMENT.

Laidlaw Environmental Services is committed to preserving the world for us and our children. But we need your help.

It's a fact. Every year, U.S. industry generates 300 million tons of hazardous waste, that if not properly managed will pollute our world and threaten our lives.

Laidlaw Environmental Services is working to help reduce the problems associated with waste, and protecting our environment.

The solutions to waste problems begin with us...the consumers. We must continue to change our habits. We must make conserving and recycling an every day part of our lives. We must buy products that produce the least amount of waste, and applaud our industrial neighbors who continually search for and implement waste solutions at every opportunity.

And, we must realize that the waste that is left must be properly managed by the most environmentally safe methods.

Laidlaw Environmental Services does this better than any other company in our industry. From transportation, resource recovery, recycling, treatment, disposal, to household hazardous waste collection programs and Superfund cleanups, we know what we're doing, and we care about what we do.

At Laidlaw Environmental Services, we know it's our responsibility to protect the environment.

Clemson Memorial Stadium

Just before Jess Neely left for Rice University, he gave Clemson a message. "Don't ever let them talk you into building a big stadium," he said. "Put about 10,000 seats behind the Y.M.C.A. That's all you'll ever need."

Instead of following Coach Neely's advice, however, Clemson officials decided to build the new stadium in a valley on the western part of campus. The place would take some clearing-there were many trees, but luckily there were no hedges.

The crews went to work: clearing, cutting, pouring, and forming. Finally, on September 19, 1942, Clemson Memorial Stadium opened with the Tiger Football team thrashing Presbyterian College, 32-13. Those 20,000 seats installed for Opening Day would soon grow; and grow and grow. This year Clemson celebrates its 50th year in this outstanding facility.

When the original part of the stadium was built in the early 40's, much of the work was done by scholarship athletes, including many football players. The first staking out of the stadium was done by two members of the football team, A.N. Cameron and Hugh Webb. Webb returned to Clemson years later to be an architecture professor, and Cameron on to become civil engineer in Louisiana.

The building of the stadium did not proceed without a few problems. One day during the clearing of the land, one young football player proudly announced that he was not allergic to poison oak. He then commenced to attack the poison oak with a swing blade, throwing the plants to and fro. The next day, however, the boy was swollen twice his size and had to be put in the hospital.

There are many other stories about the stadium, including one stating that Frank Howard put a chew of tobacco in each corner of the stadium as the concrete poured.

Howard says that the seeding of the grass caused a few problems. "About 40 people and I laid sod on the field," he says. "After three weeks, on July 15, we had only gotten halfway through. I told them that it had taken us three weeks to get that far, and I would give them three more week's pay for however long it took. I also told them we would have 50 gallons of ice cream when we got through. After that it took them three days to do the rest of the field. Then we sat down in the middle of the field and ate up that whole 50 gallons."

Howard says that on the first day of the first game in the stadium, "the gates were hung at 1:00 and we played at 2:00." But that would be all of the construction for a while. Then in 1958, 18,000 sideline seats were added and, in 1960, a total of 5,658 West end zone seats were added in response to increasing attendance. With the large end zone "Green Grass" section, this expansion increased capacity to about 53,000.

Later, upper decks were added to each side of the stadium as crowds swelled- the first one in 1978 and the second in 1983. This increased capacity to over 80,000 which makes it one of the 10 largest on-campus stadiums in the country.

The effect spiraling inflation has had in this century can be dramatically seen in the differences in stadium construction. The original part of the stadium was built at a cost of $125,000 or at $6.25 a seat. The newest upper deck was finished in 1983 at a cost of $13.5 million, or $866 a seat.

Through the years, Memorial Stadium has become known as "Death Valley." It was tagged this by the late Presbyterian coach, Lonnie McMillan. After bringing his P.C. teams to Clemson for years and getting whipped, McMillan said the place was like Death Valley. A few years later the name stuck.

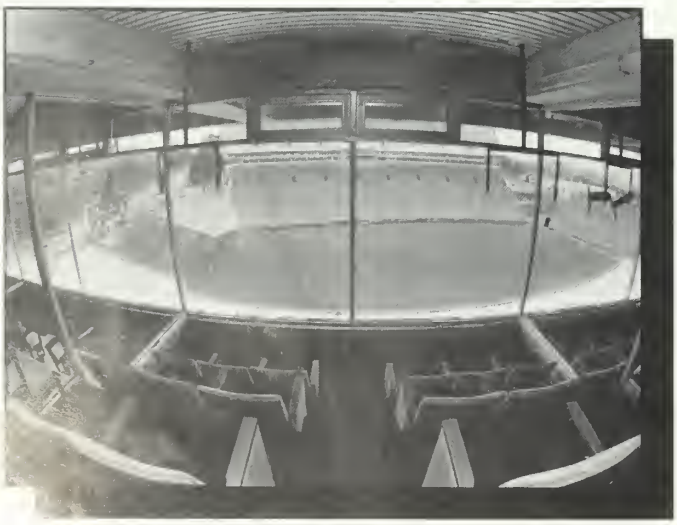
On November 16, 1974 the playing surface was named Frank Howard Field for the legendary coach because of his long service and dedication to the University.

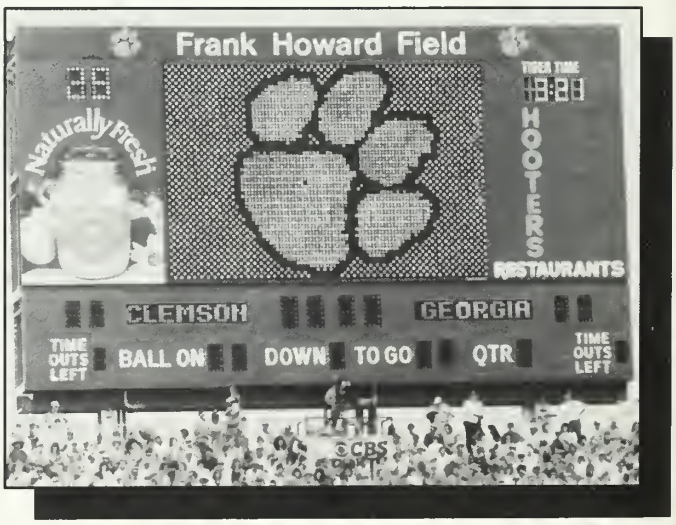
Athletic Director Bobby Robinson says that Memorial Stadium has many features which make it a top facility. "One thing that makes it so good is the number of sideline seats," he says. "We don't think there is a bad seat in the house.

"We also have outstanding dressing rooms, press facilities, and ample parking nearby. Another unique feature of the stadium is the number of private boxes."

If Memorial Stadium is expanded again and the capacity is pushed closer to 100,000, there will be room for construction over the west stands, enclosing that end like a horseshoe.

Luckily, the stadium wasn't built behind the Y.





Clemson Memorial Stadium has over 100 luxury boxes, more than any other on-campus facility in the nation. Clemson's message board keeps fans up to date with other scores and stats, and also projects player's pictures after an outstanding play.

This Day in Tiger Football

By Beth McInnis

Late October sees the leaves of the upstate peaking in color and the Clemson Tiger football team in the height of the season. Today the Tigers face longtime ACC rival N.C. State in the 11th Annual Textile Bowl. Both schools are known not only as football powerhouses, but as top textile schools in the southeast.

Through the years, October 26th has been a very successful day in Clemson football history. Since 1901, Clemson has compiled a 6-2 record on October 26, losing only to the University of Alabama in 1968 and University of Tennessee in 1974.

1901- Ninety years ago today, the crowd in Athens, GA witnessed a grueling 29-5 Clemson win over the Georgia Bulldogs. The Tigers chalked up five touchdowns, four of which were scored by E.J. Decosta. Bill Snead, Clemson's right tackle, scored the other. This game saw the Tigers hold out three of their best players in preparation for the Virginia Tech game five days later.

1916 - Clemson's offense dominated in the 1916 defeat of arch-rival South Carolina at the South Carolina State Fair. The 27-0 victory began when C.S. Major pitched the ball to Stumpy Banks who ran in for 25 yards and a touchdown. Major came through again in the third quarter with a 20-yard cruise into the end zone. "Fish" Witsell fell into the end zone for another Tiger score to finish the assault.

1922 - Eight thousand spectators received their money's worth and more as Clemson won a thriller at the expense of South Carolina, 3-0. If at first you don't succeed, try, try again was the rule rather than the exception in the Tigers' effort to score.

Late in the fourth quarter, Clemson, on a series of passes, worked the ball deep into Carolina territory. On second down, with the ball resting close to the Carolina goal line, Charley Robinson of Clemson attempted a field goal, but it was blocked. After a mad scramble, Robinson recovered the ball for the Tigers. On third down, Robinson ran back to the 20-yard-line and drop kicked the ball through the goal posts for three points to give the underdog Tigers a 3-0 win.

1939 - On a beautiful afternoon, 20,000 spectators watched the 1939 Tigers defeat Navy 15-7 on Navy's home turf. Clemson took the first punch by driving Navy runningback Monty Whitehead into his own end zone for a safety and 2-0 lead. Superior blocking opened a path minutes later for Shad Bryant to add to the score. In the third quarter, future Clemson University President Walter Cox intercepted a Navy pass to set up another Clemson score. The Tigers were without the services of it's stalwart, Banks McFadden. He did not make the trip because of an infected foot that came as a result of a bruise he received when breaking in a new pair of football cleats.

1963 - Twenty eight years ago, Clemson marked up its first win of the season against Virginia in Charlottesville. The Tigers had a rough start that year, entering the game with an 0-4-1 record. Fortunately, something changed their luck that afternoon and the Tigers came up with a 35-0 rout of the Cavaliers.

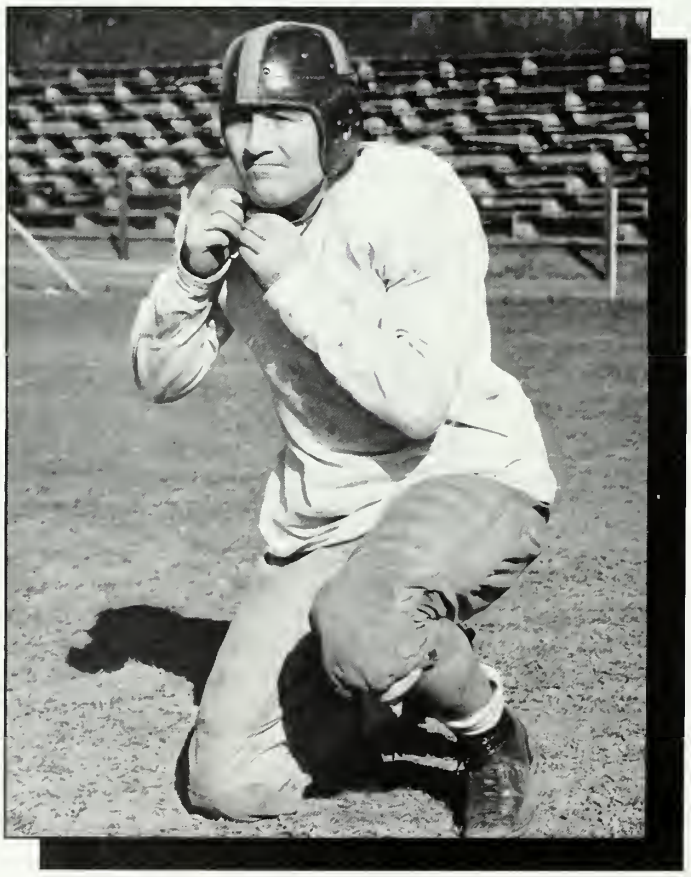
Former Clemson President Dr. Robert C. Edwards gave a new meaning to the word loyal, as he served as the spotter for the Clemson Radio Network at the Virginia game that year. Clemson was suffering through an 0-4-1 start and Edwards had been asking what he could do to help get the Tigers on track. At Charlottesville, the Clemson Radio Network needed someone to spot for play-by-play announcer Jimmy Coggins and color broadcaster Ed Osborne. Dr. Edwards wanted to do it. This must have changed the Tigers' luck as Clemson rolled over the Cavaliers to give Clemson its first win of the season. After the game, Edwards was offered the regular fee for spotting by Coggins. "No Jimmy," said Dr. Edwards. "I don't want the money. Those 35 points were good enough for me."

1968 - All good things must come to an end, and on October 26, 1968 the Tigers' 5-0 record (for October 26) went to 5-1 with a loss to Coach Bear Bryant's Alabama team. Alabama's assault began midway through the first quarter with a 40-yard Scott Hunter pass caught by Donnie Sutton for a touchdown. During the Tigers' next possession, quarterback Billy Ammons fumbled for a loss of possession and 12 yards on the play. The Crimson Tide rolled on with a 13-yard touchdown on the sixth play of the possession by Buddy Seay.

With 3:19 left in the second quarter, Clemson scored on a three-yard rush by Buddy Gore. Things were looking up for Clemson early in the third quarter when Ray Yauger scored on a six-yard Ammons pass to tie the game 14-14. High spirits were short-lived on the Clemson bench when Alabama's George Ranger caught a 30-yard Hunter pass for a touchdown making the final score, 21-14.

1974 - Tight was the name of the game in 1974 when Clemson battled Tennessee. Tennessee pulled out a last-second victory on a desperation play on that October 26 afternoon. Clemson was leading 28-21 in the fourth quarter when the Volunteers' Stanley Morgan scored from eight yards out to pull the score to 28-27 with 1:13 left in the game. Tennessee called on a two-point conversion play to try for the win. Quarterback Condredge Holloway, under heavy pressure from the Clemson defense, dropped back and launched the ball to the endzone into the hands of 6-4 Larry Sievers for an exciting Volunteer win. The extra height advantage made the difference in the pass completion, and the Volunteers pulled out a 29-28 win.

1985 - The last time Clemson played on October 26 the territory was familiar. Danny Ford's Tigers went up against the North Carolina State Wolfpack in Death Valley. Clemson dominated from the first cannon blast to steam past the Wolfpack 39-10 in the fifth annual Textile Bowl. The Clemson offense rushed for 279 yards behind the the running of Stacy Driver and Kenny Flowers. Driver finished the game with 125 yards, including a 29-yard touchdown run, while Flowers ran for 70 yards, including a five-yard touchdown run.



Shad Bryant, a member of the 1939 Tiger team, has been called one of the greatest wingbacks ever to play for Clemson.

You Make The Call

NCAA®

QUESTION: You are excited because your area's high school has just won the state championship. You would like to attend a banquet honoring the team, but you know that as a representative of Clemson's athletics interests you are not supposed to have contact with prospective student-athletes. Can you attend the banquet without violating NCAA rules?*

ANSWER: Yes. NCAA rules allow you to attend functions that are also attended by prospective student-athletes from your local area. Remember that any contact you have with prospects at this function should not involve promotion of Clemson or Clemson athletics.*

ALMA MATER

Where the Blue Ridge yawns its greatness

Where the Tigers play

Here the sons of dear old Clemson,

Reign Supreme alway.

Chorus

Dear old Clemson, we will triumph

And with all our might

That the Tigers' roar may echo

O'er the mountain height.

Grow Team Spirit!

Introducing Womack Nursery Company's Collegiate Plant™ Program. Now, the orange and white azaleas native to Clemson's campus are available at your favorite lawn and garden center.

In most cases, the original cuttings came directly from the azaleas grown in and around Memorial Stadium. These cuttings or others from the same species were then propagated by Womack Nursery Company.

By buying a Collegiate Plant™ you'll take team spirit home to your front yard. In addition, you'll be supporting the university's athletic program because a portion of the profits from the plant's sale will go directly back to the school.

Vickery Hall

Clemson University's commitment to provide its student-athletes with the very best of facilities is evident in many ways. From the soaring upper decks of Memorial Stadium, to the state-of-the-art strength training facility, young men and women from all 18 of Clemson's varsity sports have the very best in facilities for training and competition. But Clemson's commitment to provide its student-athletes with awesome facilities doesn't apply only to areas of athletic competition, but to academic life as well.

The most convincing evidence of this commitment is Clemson University's new academic learning center, which opened this spring. The $2.5 million facility is among the first in the nation devoted entirely to the athletic-academic advising program. The two-story, 27,000-square-foot building, located behind Jordan Hall at the bottom of Bryan Mall, is open throughout the day and into the evening to accommodate the extended schedules of student-athletes, and consolidates a variety of academic services for their use.

The new academic learning center has been named Kenneth N. Vickery Hall in honor of the Clemson alumnus and former dean of students. Vickery, a native of Hartwell, GA, graduated from Clemson in 1938. That year, he became assistant to the registrar. Following a stint in the military, he returned to Clemson as assistant registrar and director of admissions. He was named registrar in 1955 and assistant vice president for Student Affairs and dean of Admissions and Registration in 1970. Vickery retired from Clemson in 1982, but has remained active in volunteer service with the university's alumni association and various other committees. Vickery was also Clemson's NCAA faculty representative for 11 years.

"We feel this is a fitting tribute to a man who has a 50-year record of service to the university in admissions and registration and a long-term interest in athletes' academic achievements," said Nick Lomax, vice president for Student Affairs.

The goal of the facility is to function as a support system in providing the student-athlete the opportunity to reach his or her full potential. Vickery Hall is a commitment by the Clemson University Athletic Department to give each student-athlete a meaningful opportunity to make his or her Clemson experience a fulfilling one, not only during his or her years at Clemson, but long after the student-athlete enters the professional world.

"Vickery Hall is one of the most important facilities the Clemson University Athletic Department has ever built or will ever build. It makes a philosophical statement about the institutional commitment - giving our students the same opportunity to achieve their full potential academically that we give them athletically. We're very serious about that," according to Athletic Director Bobby Robinson.

Given the time pressures of athletic participation and practice, student athletes face a difficult balancing act in trying to perform well both on the playing field and in the classroom. With respect to this, the Clemson academic advising program has provided one of the best academic tutoring and advising programs in the nation over the last several years. The completion of Vickery Hall gives the Academic Advising Program an even greater opportunity to help student-athletes reach the short-term goal of graduation and the long-term goal of success in business.

The facility is impressive aesthetically, but even more so for the many purposes it serves. The main entrance to the building is a 1,570-square foot reception/office area, comprised of four advisors' offices, two graduate student offices, a conference room, and a small study room. Also located on the bottom floor is the office of Bill D'Andrea, the director of Clemson's student-athlete enrichment program.

The building also boasts a 175-seat auditorium to be used for classes, review sessions, and seminars. The various speakers and lecturers who will come to work with Clemson student-athletes as part of the student-enrichment program will also use this facility. The auditorium is equipped with a projection booth and state-of-the-art audio and video equipment and will be available to other campus groups when not in use for athletic advising.

Another area of the main floor, the computer resources area, consists of a general computer tutoring room and a computer science tutoring room. The computer room contains 15 personal computers for hands-on computer tutoring, word processing and other general uses. The room is designed for tutoring computer science, engineering and management courses. Four printers are also available in the computer area and there is someone available to answer computer user questions.

The 13,000-square-foot study and tutoring area on the second floor comprises the majority of the center and is used primarily during the evening hours. A large 65-seat study room and ten 20-seat study rooms are designed as classrooms with freestanding desks. One-on-one or small group instruction will take place in 20 small tutoring rooms accommodating eight to 10 students each, two medium tutoring rooms for 20 people each and three large tutoring rooms for 40 people each.

Joe White serves as the academic advisor for football, while Ian Davidson, Laurie Haughey and Annie Tribble supervise the academic progress of athletes in the other 17 sports.

Student-Athlete Career Assistance Program

The Student-Athlete Career Assistance Program is one of the most important programs provided by the staff of Vickery Hall. The philosophy of this program is to provide help in securing summer employment and to aid in meeting long-term career goals.

By using the resources available to the University, Alumni Center and the Athletic Department, Bill D'Andrea is working to establish a network of businesses, companies, and executives who will help assist with The Summer Employment Assistance Program. The program's main goal is to provide the student-athlete with a job experience and a work history, which he or she can apply to his or her academic discipline.

The Long Term Career Assistance Program will be coordinated from the academic colleges, the Placement Center, and through the Athletic Department contacts. This program is designed to better prepare the student-athlete for full-time employment and will focus on resume writing and interview techniques so that each student-athlete will be competitive and aggressive when dealing with companies who visit the Clemson campus.

Personal Growth Program

Another aspect of Clemson University's commitment to help student-athletes reach their potential in all areas of their life - academically, athletically, and socially, is the recently implemented personal growth program. This program is one of the many purposes of Vickery Hall. This particular area of student development is designed to enhance and support the lives of student-athletes during their enrollment in college as well as in their life experiences after graduation.

Bobby Douglas, the Development Coordinator, and the Vickery Hall staff realize that student-athletes have more obligations than a regular college student. The personal growth program seeks to eliminate some of the stresses of adjustment to the higher level of academics and athletics. It is the group's special task to assist the student-athlete by creating a finely tuned balance of all areas to insure success in obtaining a Clemson University degree, by supporting successful athletic practice and competition, enhancing personal growth, and helping with the transition to life after college.

A series of personal growth programs will be offered to student-athletes throughout each semester. Some programs may accomplish their objectives in one session, while others may be ongoing throughout the academic year. Some of the personal growth programs are as follows:

Freshman Conquest: This program will seek to make the freshman's adjustment to college life easier by covering many areas of adjustment to university life.

Alcohol and Drug Issues: The intent of this program is to provide the student-athlete with an overview of the disease of addictions and chemical dependence. Emphasis will be placed on providing basic awareness of how substance abuse effects individuals, families and athletic teams.

Current Topics of Concern: The idea behind this segment of the Personal Growth Plan is to address issues that effect students such as human sexuality, birth control, date rape, etc.

Career Preparation: The Career Preparation Plan is to encourage all student-athletes to think about life after sports and after graduation. Many sources of information will be available, from career testing to self-paced computer programs, and even with resume preparation and interview skills.

Nutrition and Eating Disorders: Eating habits and proper diet are very important in maintaining sound body and mind. The focus of this program revolves around presenting information so that student-athletes can analyze their own eating habits and carefully choose a balanced diet with enough calories to maintain good health.

Choosing a Major: This is an important aspect of educational life. This program is designed to help student-athletes make the right choice of major in respect to their career goals.

Personal Finance: Student-athletes on athletic scholarships are not allowed to have jobs during the academic year. Therefore, it is important to budget personal finances so they do not run out before the semester. This program not only discusses budgeting but also the responsible use of credit.

Stress Management: All student-athletes face additional concerns during their college days than normal students. Many times these add stress to the everyday lives of student-athletes. The object of this program is to teach the student-athlete ways of identifying and handling personal stress so it does not interfere with the maintenance of good mental and physical health.

Interpersonal Communication: Communication is necessary in all areas of life to improve happiness, instill contentment and enhance success. Programs dealing with interpersonal communication will involve improvement of listening skills, verbal skills and learning respect for the feelings and emotions of others.

Study Skills/Time Management: These two topics are combined because a major part of developing good study skills involves having the time to delegate to studying. Objectives of this program are to expose student-athletes to different types of study techniques that are proven effective.

Motivation/Self Esteem: The objective of this program is to improve the level of self esteem for student-athletes to positively impact their productivity in all areas of campus life.

Goal Setting: Clemson University wants success for every student-athlete, hence they have a strong program put together about setting goals. Goal setting applies to or is incorporated in almost every other Personal Growth Program.

Put Clemson In Your Game Plan!

You've been caught up in the excitement of a Clemson ball game— an experience in itself. But don't leave town without trying some other Clemson pleasures.

Beautiful Lake Hartwell invites you to fish, swim, sail, ski or boat. Area parks are laced with hiking trails and picnic areas for family pleasure.

History buffs and novices alike will find an abundance of sites to explore in Clemson and neighboring Pendleton.

Shoppers will delight in the friendly, charming shops downtown or in our people-sized shopping centers. You'll find some great buys at our warehouse and discount stores.

And when it's time to eat you'll find food ranging from fast to fabulous; cuisine that's country or from other countries, all a few miles or less from the stadium.

Once the boll weevil was South Carolina's biggest economic problem. But Clemson found the solution – a boll weevil eradication program that reduced pesticide dependence by two-thirds and boosted the state's cotton production dramatically.

Combining the academic skills of research and teaching to get information to people who need it is Clemson's way of solving all those problems waiting to replace the boll weevil: Health problems. Environmental problems. Economic problems.

Regardless of what's ahead, Clemson University's commitment to public service guarantees that the energy and resources of "the people's university" will be used for the people's good.

Shots. Fevers. Feeding schedules. Growth and development. Raising a family is a process filled with questions and anxieties. The Nursing Center in Clemson's College of Nursing provides immunizations, well-baby clinics, and other services and educational programs to help parents through the health care maze.

The university's health services extend far beyond the Center's doors. The mobile health clinic travels to other communities; the home health care program offers services to those too ill to leave home; Clemson researchers in the ORTHO-PERT program have developed technology that will make custom-made joint implants available soon; and the Extension Service's Healthy Mothers, Healthy Babies program offers information on prenatal care in an effort to improve birth weights and lower the infant mortality rate. Livestock and poultry health programs ensure that even animals benefit from the university's expertise.

TEXTILE BOWL

The Clemson Tigers. The North Carolina State Wolf Pack. The Textile Bowl.

Two power football teams in one great bowl game. And even though the score might not show it, at the final gun there'll be two winners.

That's because North Carolina State and Clemson are working together to keep America working. Each university is nationally recognized for its outstanding athletic programs as well as its textile education and training programs. The Carolina textile industry is proud of the students, faculty and alumni of both universities for the dedication to the textile industry.

That dedication has helped the textile industry provide a better education for our students and, ultimately, a better way of life for the industry's 1,750,828 employees and the Carolinas. The plants of North and South Carolina produce almost half of America's textiles and apparel and provide 415,900 jobs a year.

We're not only proud of our reputation as a manufacturing leader, we're proud of our reputation as corporate citizens. We provide essential tax dollars and award grants that help the arts, hospitals, libraries and human service organizations as well as higher education because we feel we have the responsibility to give back to the Carolinas what they've given to us - pride.

Welcome to the Textile Bowl, one of the highlights of American Textile Week. Today's Clemson, North Carolina State game is the teams' eleventh meeting since the Textile Bowl was established.

At the conclusion of the game the Textile Bowl Trophy will be turned over to the winning team until next year's match-up.

TEXTILE WEEK

CRAFTED WITH PRIDE IN U.S.A.

The Textile Bowl was established to recognize the accomplishments and dedication each of the two universities has shown to the textile industry in the Carolinas. Clemson and North Carolina State are among only 12 universities in the nation that offers a full range of textile degrees from bachelor to doctoral. Over 11,200 students have graduated from Clemson and North Carolina State in the textile field.

The textile industry was this country's first major industry. And thanks to the commitment of these two fine universities, the "Crafted With Pride In USA"program and other universities around the nation, the textile industry is moving into the 90's prouder, stronger and faster than ever.

We want to thank every one in advance for making Textile Week and the Textile Bowl a success.
